Major Coart's Plea for New Trial Turned Down

Former Army Officer
Pleaded 'Unwritten Law'
When on Trial for Murder of A. B. McNiece.

"DYING CONFESSION"
OF McNIECE UPHELD

Alleged Boasts of Victim
Did Not Justify Jealous
Husband in Killing Him,
Declares Opinion.

Major Lee H. Coart, former army officer, who was convicted in Talbot county superior court in March 1922 of the murder of A. B. McNiece, Talbot county school superintendent, and sentenced to life imprisonment, late Monday afternoon was denied a new trial by the supreme court in the most voluminous opinion issued by this court in many years. Coart's defense in the lower courts had been based, for the most part, on the "unwritten law."

Chief Justice Richard B. Russell wrote the opinion of the court and there was not a single dissent from the bench of six justices. The judgment of the court below was affirmed, although four of the justices concurred specially; that is to say, they agreed to the judgment refusing a new trial unconditionally, but refused to accede to everything that was said in the opinion. These especially concurring justices were Beck, Atkinson, Hill and Hines. Justice Gilbert concurred generally with the opinion of the chief justice.

No Reason for New Trial.
The supreme court declared that there was nothing in the record, rulings and charge of the court below, either as regarded the evidence or the law, that required a new trial; that the verdict of the jury was supported by the evidence, and that there was no error committed anywhere in the course of the trial warranting a new trial.

Coart was convicted of murder at Talbotton on March 13, 1922, as a result of having shot down McNiece in the latter's office in the county courthouse on October 11, 1921. McNiece died in the Piedmont Sanitarium in Atlanta on October 28, 1921.

Court Denies Plea.
Coart failed to secure sanction by the supreme court of his contention "that when once it becomes determined by the court of one man, that he intends to continue intimate relations with the wife of another, the latter can then and there about to kill, not being required to hold back under the rule of the law that danger of the commission of acts of intimacy must be urgent, imminent and pressing." The supreme court held as it has before held, that to justify a husband to kill for this reason, the acts of intimacy must be in progress or about to begin. Coart's counsel urged "that the law does not say the act of intimacy must be imminent, but that the danger of such act

SAYS U. S. BRIEF

Document Filed in Federal Court Declares Existence of "Combination Scheme and Conspiracy"

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Washington, September 24.—The sale of enemy owned patents to the Chemical Foundation, Inc., by the alien property custodian was accomplished through a "combination scheme and conspiracy," the government charges in a brief filed today in the federal district court at Wilmington, Del., in its suit to set aside the sale.

Former Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer, Francis P. Garvin, former alien property custodian and now president of the foundation, and others are named in the brief which is signed by Attorney General Daugherty, Henry W. Anderson, of Richmond, Va., special assistant to the attorney general, and other government counsel.

The evidence adduced at the trial of the case before Judge Morris at Wilmington some months ago is reviewed and affidavits quoted at length to support the major contentions of the government which are:

Seven Main Points.

That President Wilson could not delegate to Assistant Secretary of State Polk his authority to order a private sale of seized enemy property.

That President Wilson's order of February 15, 1920, did not attempt to ratify the orders of Mr. Polk authorizing private sale of the property.

That the sales were invalid because "the combination of substantially all of the prospective purchasers into one organization."

That the sales were invalid because "purposely made in such a manner as to destroy, in whole or in part, the value of the property."

That the sale was illegal and void "on account of the relations of the parties conducting the same to each other and to the subject matter."

That the sales were illegal and void for the reason that the price was arbitrarily arrived at and grossly inadequate.

That the transactions of alleged sale and assignment were unlawful and void "since in effect they constituted an effort on the part of the alien property custodian to confiscate the alien property and to give or donate the same as a bounty in the aid of certain private industries."

Too Much Collusion.

STRIKERS CHARGE
COPS ARE PARTIAL

New Orleans Mayor Reinforces Dock Squads With Shotguns and Riot Auto.

New Orleans, September 24.—While the union longshoremen complained today to Mayor McShane about alleged police discrimination in the water front strike situation the police force in the affected area was strengthened with riot guns, a squad of motorcycle policemen and a riot automobile.

Harry Keegan, president of the longshoremen's association, and his attorney conferred with the mayor. Nothing was given out definitely but it was understood Keegan complained the police were not giving the strikers a "square deal" and that they subjected them to unnecessary restrictions.

The mayor was reported to have said that order must be maintained at all costs. An emergency police station was opened in the dock board offices at the foot of Canal street.

Neither the union men nor the ship operators have given the slightest sign of weakening. The strike was called by the workers to enforce a demand for higher wages and changes in the working rules.

King Boris Offers to Step Down from Throne as Revolt Sweeps Nation.

London, September 24.—The revolution in Bulgaria has burst into full flames and the whole country is in the hands of rebels, according to a despatch to the Morning Post from Belgrade dated today.

The despatch adds that Sofia is blockaded. King Boris has offered to resign but his offer has not been accepted.

The insurgents are said to have destroyed all means of communication and the government has lost connection with the provinces. The situation of the capital is critical. It is blockaded both in a military and economic sense, is short of provisions and is threatened with attack.

Bulgarian communists have held up the Orient express near the Turkish frontier, says a despatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Constantinople. The despatch adds that telegraph communication is interrupted.

The despatch to the Post says Premier Zankoff is reshaping the government and reinforcing it with adherents of General Teodor Alexandroff, the Macedonian leader, who has become minister of police and holds the whole city under military dictatorship.

GORGAS PLANT IS SOLD; FORD MUST BID FOR SHOALS

Alabama Power Company Pays $3,472,487.25 to the Government for Steam Unit.

Washington, September 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Henry Ford's much controverted offer to buy Muscle Shoals was wholly upset today when the government sold to the Alabama Power company the Gorgas Steam Plant—a part of the property—at a price of approximately $3,500,000.

This development forces a revised offer from Mr. Ford if he wishes to bid for the remainder of the project. He previously had informed congress that unless the Gorgas plant were included in the sale his bid did not hold.

Political observers who have professed to see some connection between Mr. Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals and the presidential boom which bears the manufacturer's name, predicted today that the next development would be a revision of the offer, possibly leading to something bearing a relation to the coming pre-convention campaign.

Some time ago the war department notified Mr. Ford that the department of justice and the judge advocate general of the army had held valid his contract with the power company which required the government to either move the plant from the power company's land or sell it to the company.

Today was the last, under several extensions of time, in which the government could make a decision. Ford's engineers in Detroit wired the war department a request for another extension, which he power company declined to grant, and Secretary Weeks came to the decision that under the circumstances, it was more advantageous to the government to sell than move.

Appraisers Set Value.

The actual price paid was $3,472,487.25, a sum agreed on in appraisals by the ordinance division of the war department and experts of the Federal Power commission. The war-time construction costs was $4,750,000. Secretary Weeks found that if the government were to remove the plant it would realize only the junk value, and that meanwhile there would be economic loss and injury to industries using power in Alabama and other southern states, whereas a sale to the company meant the government would recover almost the original cost.

When Mr. Ford was summoned to Washington some time ago and informed of the contract with the power company, Secretary Weeks left the way open for a revised bid to extend the time.

STEALTHY SEARCH

Shadowed Klansmen as They Met in Hall in Effort to Identify Assaultants, Declares Barnett.

ASSERTS YARBROUGH
WIELDED THE LASH

Macon Dentist Is on Trial Second Time—Faces Riot Charge—Jury Is Chosen From 32 Talesmen.

Macon, Ga., September 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—How he stood in a darkened hallway near the hall in which the Klans of the Ku Klux Klan held their meetings every night for weeks and watched the members of the clan going to and from the hall, was told in city court here today by W. O. Barnett, harness manufacturer, who was flogged by a band of men on February 17, 1923. The story was told in city court where Dr. C. A. Yarbrough, prominent dentist, is on trial charged with rioting in connection with the flogging of Barnett.

Barnett was the first witness called for the state after the jury had been completed at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon. He told how a man called him from his place of business the night of February 17, telling him that one of his children had been struck by an automobile. He went with the man and got into an automobile in which were two other men, he said. He declared that Dr. Yarbrough was in this party.

Tells of Handcuffing.
The men grabbed him, Barnett said, and put handcuffs on him. They took him to a point near the end of the Vineville street car line and after reading charges that he had failed to provide for his family and beaten his children had whipped him. He asserted that Dr. Yarbrough while two men held him to the ground and a third held the handcuffs.

Barnett today told his story by answers to a long series of questions instead of relating it in one narrative as in the trial of Dr. Yarbrough on the charge of rioting in connection with the flogging of R. F. Mills recently. Solicitor Moore brought out the story point by point and on cross-examination the same method was followed by the defense.

Hunted for Floggers.
It was on cross-examination by John P. Ross, chief counsel for the defense that Barnett told of his hunt for the floggers. He said that he watched the Ku Klux Klan hall night after night until finally one night he was standing in the rear

Judge Advocate Indicates Some Dissatisfaction With Gallant Stand of Officer.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

San Diego, Calif., September 24.—A tale of the Honda disaster, told by the destroyer squadron commander who two weeks ago saw seven of his ships impaled on the jagged rocks near Point Arguello and more than a score of his men go down to their death, took up today's session of the naval court of inquiry investigating the wreck.

Captain Edward H. Watson, chief of the eleventh squadron, was the commander who told the story, and in it he took upon himself full responsibility for the catastrophe that cost 23 lives and asked that none of the blame be allowed to fall on the shoulders of his "able and loyal subordinates," against whom he had no complaint to make and only words of praise to utter.

The court of inquiry was not entirely satisfied with Captain Watson's testimony, taking upon himself all of the responsibility for loss of lives and ships, however, began to lay the blame today when Admiral William W. Pratt, presiding member of the investigating body, asked him to state whether he had ever objected to his division commanders asking independently for radio communication bearings with which to check their quadrants and bearings, or whether he had ever objected to their taking soundings at crucial points on a cruise for the purpose of making sure that the squadron flag ship was right in its dead reckoning.

Did Not Object to Check.
To these questions Captain Watson answered that he had not ever objected to such independent soundings or requests for bearings and that he did not object to his division commanders checking his navigation for errors or reporting such errors to him if they discovered them.

Under cross-examination by counsel for the division commanders, Captain Watson qualified his answer by saying that roundings could not have been taken while the squadron was traveling at twenty knots; that a division commander would first have had to ask him for permission to slow down for soundings.

Here Admiral Pratt interrupted again.

"But as a matter of fact were your navigation facilities any better than those of your division commanders had they chosen to exercise a little initiative," he asked.

"No," answered the witness.

"Do you feel that you can assume all of the responsibility that at times must fall on the shoulders of your division commanders, particularly that part of their responsibility which concerns the safeguarding of their vessels?"

"I have no desire to assume their responsibilities," answered Captain Watson. "I simply want to make clear that I assume all of my own."

He Made Decision.
In carrying out his announced desire to make clear from the witness

RUHR RESISTANCE TO BE ABANDONED
BY FORMAL EDICT

Decision Is Reached Following Day-Long Conference Attended by Rhineland Delegates.

REDS STAGE PARADE AS PARLEY PROCEEDS

Official Announcement of Agreement Emphasizes Financial Stress as Primary Cause of It.

BY FERDINAND JAHN.

Berlin, September 24.—It is officially announced that Chancellor Stresemann and delegates from the Rhineland and the Ruhr have agreed upon the unconditional abandonment of passive resistance.

The agreement followed a day of conferences in which the chancellor met industrial and political leaders from the occupied area.

It was emphasized in the conferences that giving up passive resistance did not mean that the Ruhr or Rhineland approve the occupation, or alter their attitude that expelled Germans should be returned and arrested Germans released.

The delegates who waited on the chancellor were also told the government's action did not imply surrender of its belief that the Ruhr and Rhineland should have German administrative control.

The tenor of the government's attitude was that the tremendous costs of the resistance could no longer be borne.

The government's hope to settle the questions of evicted and imprisoned Germans after resistance ceases is believed to be based on promises from the Belgian minister.

First Announced Last Week.
Germany's decision to quit resistance was announced last week, when the first offer to cancel resistance on minor conditions was made to the Belgian minister in Berlin.

This offer was rejected. Since that time Stresemann has been laying the groundwork for unconditional abandonment.

In his speech to the delegates Stresemann declared that for internal reasons it was impossible to continue the Ruhr fight.

He pointed out that the struggle had cost Germany two hundred trillion marks last week alone.

The chancellor further emphasized the significant statement that he had been advised by friendly foreign sources to give up resistance.

It is known that while Germany will make no demands, she hopes that some arrangement can be made to terminate the closing of frontiers before the closing of frontiers before the closing of frontiers.

GRAND JURY WILL

Solicitor Boykin Busy Monday Compiling Evidence to Be Placed Before Jurors Today.

Investigation of the death of L. W. ("De Witt") Turner, shot to death late Saturday afternoon by Mrs. H. H. Justice, is expected to be the first act of the Fulton county grand jury when that body convenes this morning. Solicitor Boykin and assistants were engaged Monday in questioning friends of both parties and in compiling evidence to be presented.

The only indication of the defense which Mrs. Justice will make was revealed by her sister, Mrs. Emily Watson, when the latter declared Sunday that her "sister was crazy when she shot Turner."

No information as to the defense to be entered by the young woman has been given by her attorney, Murphy M. Holloway, although it is generally believed that a plea of temporary insanity will be the basis of the defense.

The shooting of Turner occurred at the corner of Rawson and Pryor streets late Saturday afternoon while the two were riding in an automobile, two shots being fired by Mrs. Justice. The machine was brought to a stop by the slayer, who took the limp

SHOOT TO KILL
ORDER SENT OUT
BY GOV. WALTON

Executive Issues Drastic Instructions on the Eve of Effort to Impeach Him.

BLOCK SOLONS' PLAN BY FIXED BAYONETS

Oklahoma Legislators Forbidden to Attempt Special Session "at Any Place."

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Oklahoma City, September 24.—Adjutant-General B. H. Markham tonight was ordered by Governor J. C. Walton to "use all force of arms necessary" to prevent the session of the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature called for noon Wednesday.

All citizen soldiers of the state between the ages of 21 and 45 were directed in the order to hold themselves in readiness "with such arms as they possess or can obtain to come to the assistance of the sovereign state of Oklahoma when ordered to do so by the governor."

With issuance of the military order all doubt was removed as to the executive's determination to prevent the house session which has been called by its legislative opponents to consider his impeachment.

The adjutant general was ordered to use all military forces of the state if necessary to disperse the assembly.

Governor Walton reiterated his charge that the proposed meeting would be an unlawful assembly "dominated and controlled by the so-called inviolable empire, commonly known as the Ku Klux Klan."

He declared that since the Ku Klux Klan was proclaimed an enemy of the state of Oklahoma under his martial law proclamation of September 15, the session therefore would be in defiance of the laws of the state and an attempt to break the peace.

Bans Any Meeting.
As a precaution against any attempt of the legislators to meet elsewhere should they be barred from the house chamber at the state capital, the governor also directed Adjutant-General Markham to disperse the meeting at "any other time or place in the state of Oklahoma."

"The troops will be ordered to shoot to kill if necessary to prevent the assembly," Governor Walton told newspapermen. "I hope, however, that no such excessive measures will be necessary."

"All male citizens of the state," between the ages named are meant in his order to citizen soldiers to be ready for duty," Governor Walton explained.

The governor denied he intended taking action in the federal court to determine the legal status of the proposed meeting.

He likewise denied that he had sought federal aid in his war on the Ku Klux Klan.

"Whenever the government steps in, the issue is theirs," the executive asserted. "I would like for them to take over this fight, because it is a bear on my hands, but until they do, the state of Oklahoma is fully capable of looking after itself."

"Within twenty-four or thirty-six hours all the house members in favor of the session will be in Oklahoma."

side the impeachment of Governor J. C. Walton. That guns and bayonets in the hands of national guardsmen, posted before the house doors, the house chamber at the capitol, will be waiting the legislators was the promise of the governor. That house members will go peacefully to the state house and attempt to assemble, offering no resistance in case their way is blocked, was the firm declaration of Representative D. McBe. who is in charge of the session plans. All the troops needed will be on hand to prevent any disturbance between now and Wednesday noon.

Three Persons Are Mob. Three or more persons constitute a mob within the meaning of Oklahoma statutes and the executive indicated that all groups of three or more persons gathered around the entrance to the house chamber Wednesday would be dispersed. Whether arrests will be made was not revealed, the matter being in the hands of Adjutant General B. H. Mumphrey, who is maintaining silence as to his plans of action. Indicating his determination of purpose, Governor Walton gave the newspaper corps a friendly warning not to congregate in groups of more than three when they go to the "front." Military authorities, however, agreed to issue passes to the correspondents so that they can pass through the lines.

The house members do not plan to go to the capitol in a body and in this was seen tonight theory that there would be no wholesale dispersion by the military. The legislators would walk singly or by twos to the door of the house chamber and, finding their way barred, depart, it is not expected that the military will interfere.

This procedure, it is suggested, would establish, without a collision with the military, the fact that Governor Walton had prevented the session. The legislators then would have ground for action in the courts, which they plan to bring, if interfered with, to test their rights. Governor Walton declared he would welcome a court test of his power to block the gathering.

Want Walton To File Suit. Among some legislators, it was felt that the governor would not carry out his threat to prevent the session, but their optimism was not borne out by Walton's expressed attitude. These men urge that the governor permit the house to meet and then test the legality of the session in the courts. It is suggested that if the house were permitted to organize, a witness could be summoned before the bar. Then habeas corpus proceedings could be instituted in behalf of the witness attacking the regularity of the session. A court decision on this point would settle the entire matter, it is held.

This procedure has been urged upon the executive by several visitors, it is understood. That the question will have to be finally fought out in the courts is the only point upon which both sides to the controversy agree. Neither side, however, seems to care to assume a defensive position in advance.

W. E. Disney, of Tulsa, an anti-Walton leader in the house, asserted upon his arrival here today that the "forces opposing the meeting of the house at noon Wednesday are weakening."

Calls McBe "Kleagle." "Friends of the governor have been turning heaven and earth throughout the last five days, trying to scare the members off," Disney said. "All imaginable methods have been resorted to, to intimidate the representatives, but without success. Every one of the original signers of the call will be on the job Wednesday."

"We will have a good majority when the roll is called. We are going to meet in the regular meeting place of the house of representatives. The governor's bluff is called. There will be no lawlessness. We will walk right in and go to work."

Representative McBe declared the legislators who plan to be present were not a "klan mob nor an anti-klan mob," but were champions of the "great American class of people who are not of either of these factions."

Governor Walton, in a statement today, referred to the Stephens county representative as "Kleagle McBe."

The first concerted action among the house members will come tomorrow night when they caucus for preliminary organization to choose officers. It is understood that a repeal will be made to the people or funds to carry on the legislative fight.

FLOGGERS ATTENDED SERVICES AT CHURCH. Tulsa, Okla., September 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The whipping of Norman Chesher, a young married man of Mounds, Tulsa county, by masked men, who 15 minutes before had attended church services at Mounds in a body, was described in testimony before the military court of inquiry here which was made public tonight by an officer of the tribunal.

Mrs. Chesher, wife of the victim, testified she did not witness the abduction, but learned of his experience "when he returned home late at night with his clothes torn and his back a mass of bruises." She said he did not identify any of his assailants.

"His health was broken by the flogging and other mistreatment he received that night," she said. "He never has been well since and now is in Hot Springs, Ark., under a doctor's care."

"He told me that he had been hit about twenty-five times with what he thought to be a harness tug. The men accused him of supporting his widowed mother, of carrying a gun, and of selling whisky. He told them his mother died when he was three years of age, that he had never carried a gun or sold whisky. Then they told him they would whip him on general principles."

customary in such disasters as this for certain critics to charge that the use of alcohol was responsible. But for a few minutes after the opening of this morning's session when records salvaged from the wrecked ships were offered in evidence by Lieutenant-Commander Leslie Beaton, judge advocate, Captain Watson occupied the stand all day.

He told a chronological story of events leading up to the disaster, beginning with his orders from the chief of the destroyer force before the cruise commenced and ending with the rescue of more than 500 members of the squadron eleven's crews from the doomed destroyers at Honda.

When he had finished his narrative it was noon; then counsel for other defendants and members of the court concluded their cross-examination and it was time for the night adjournment.

Tells of Entire Trip. Captain Watson testified slowly and deliberately, from time to time referring to charts of Santa Barbara channel and the coast line near Arguello, working with rule and dividers as he talked.

He told of the conference aboard the Melville, flagship of the destroyer force, at which he had been ordered to maintain a standard speed of not less than 20 knots. He told of the squadron's departure from San Francisco, the evolutions and gunnery exercises scheduled for the voyage and of every change of course that was made by the south bound vessels.

Then he told of the apparently conflicting radio compass bearings from Point Arguello, of how one received party in the afternoon indicated the squadron was south of the point, when he knew he was north; how a reverse bearing was asked for and been given; how this incident shook any confidence he might have had in the direction signals from that station.

clude the Gorgas plant, and Mr. Ford was given to understand the war department would credit him with the proceeds of the sale, and thus reduce his initial payment of $3,000,000 to approximately $1,500,000. Some doubt was expressed as to what view congress might take at the proposal.

The remainder of the Alabama Shoa's property for that sum, inasmuch as the junk value of the whole project had been estimated by army engineers to be $18,000,000.

The power company deposited its payment in cash with the finance offices of the war department in New York this morning, and the Secretary of War signed the deed this afternoon, waiting until the last minute for a revised offer from Mr. Ford.

Weeks' Statement. Secretary Weeks' statement, issued immediately after the papers had been signed, follows:

"The secretary of war announced today that the United States had sold to the Alabama Power company the Warrior extension and appurtenances at Gorgas and power transmission line from the plant to Sheffield, Ala., for $3,472,457.25 cash and the deed had been delivered."

Under the contract of the Alabama Power company the government acquired the right to use temporarily the land of that company upon which the government erected an addition to one of the company's steam plants and a transmission line from that plant to Sheffield at a total wartime cost of about $1,750,000. Under the terms of the contract, the company some time ago served notice on the government to either remove the property from the land of the company or to sell to the company at a fair, appraised value.

Experts Set Values. The secretary was advised by both the judge advocate-general of the army and the attorney-general that the former secretary of war was authorized to contract for the temporary use of the lands of the company, to place government buildings and machinery thereon and to stipulate for their removal and restoration of the lands to the owners in their former conditions as provided in the contract.

This advice was given notwithstanding opinions had been rendered before Alabama and the other provisions of the contract invalid. To remove the property would have meant the loss by the government of substantially all of the investment, hence the determination to sell.

"The secretary of war had the advice of experts from the ordinance department and the federal power commission in arriving at a fair value of the properties. Before making the sale the secretary of war advised Mr. Henry Ford of the situation and of the opinion of the attorney-general and asked Mr. Ford for any suggestions he or his attorneys might offer; but none was made under the circumstances, no other course was open to the government but to sell to the Alabama Power company, and it has thereby succeeded in successfully sal-

PEACE PROTOCOL WAITING ACTION

Geneva, September 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—President Torrance, of the league of nations assembly, announced today that the protocol for compulsory arbitration of all disputes arising under commercial treaties was now open for the signature of all nations. The protocol was framed by the league commission dealing with economic and commercial matters.

The assembly received and discussed today the report of the judicial commission favoring the adoption of a resolution supplying an interpretation to the famous Article X of the league covenant. By this resolution the constitutional authorities of each state would have the exclusive right to determine to what degree, if any, military assistance would be afforded another country when that country was being attacked.

Under this interpretation the council of the league could only suggest the nature of the assistance. The members of the league would not, therefore, be committed in advance to assuring the territorial integrity of the other members to the extent of employing their fleets and armies.

Secretary of State Hughes has replied to a communication from the league dispatched to all governments for information concerning slavery, with the statement that slavery does not exist within the territory of the United States. The inquiry was sent out at about the time that Ethiopia applied for league membership. The idea being to obtain facts concerning possible ramifications of alleged existence of slavery in Ethiopia. The American answer confined itself strictly to the United States, pointing out that slavery was prohibited by the thirteenth amendment.

to the constitution. Ethiopia applied still in abeyance, pending her taking solemn engagements regarding the cessation of slavery.

MAJOR LEE COART DENIED NEW TRIAL

must be so, as was the case with Lee Coart. At the trial the defense offered only the statement of the defendant. In convicting, the jury recommended Coart to the mercy of the court and he was sentenced to life imprisonment. His lawyers are expected to file a motion for a rehearing by the supreme court before Saturday as it must be passed upon before next Monday, the beginning of a new term of court. Coart will begin serving his term if his rehearing is denied or if granted, falls to change the high court's decision.

The outstanding feature of the case—the one which served to make vitally a national story out of the affair—was the fact that, although the case was listed among the "triangle" cases, it was, in fact, what might more properly be called "rectangular," inasmuch as, while Coart was contending that he killed McNeice about Coart's wife, the state was contending that Coart killed McNeice about McNeice's wife.

Damaging Testimony. The widow of McNeice, formerly Celestia McNeice, a beautiful and accomplished young woman, a graduate of Wesleyan college at Macon, furnished the most damaging evidence against the defendant, spending several hours of the witness stand to tell of "how Major Coart had forced his attentions upon her in his home, hugging and kissing her by force, from which she was able to free herself only by a struggle."

She testified she went to the home of Coart to see Mrs. Coart in regard to a missionary society program in which she and Mrs. Coart were interested. Mrs. Coart being absent,

Coart, with suddenness, began making violent love to her, she said. She testified she refrained from telling her husband about the affair, "because she knew he would dye his hands in Coart's blood."

Abandoned Infatuation. The prosecution contended that Coart took McNeice's life "because of an abandoned infatuation for Celestia McNeice, going the length even of murder when Mrs. McNeice told him that 'nothing but death could part her from her husband.' That was why he killed, the state said, claiming that he was infatuated enough to believe that with McNeice out of the way, he could win his wife.

Coart, on the other hand, told the jury that it was only after he had been to McNeice three times "about his notorious conduct in regard to Mrs. Coart," on the second visit, he said, McNeice, taunting him, said: "I'll tell you right now, I have been intimate with your wife, we love each other, and we are going together as much as we do, and you can't stop me," that he fired the shots which took the school superintendent's life. Coart told the jury McNeice started from his chair, with a pocket knife in his hand, in a menacing attitude, as he "hurled at me this foul insult." During the argument of the trial George C. Palmer, of Columbus, one of Coart's lawyers, told the jury: "Yes, gentlemen, and when McNeice made that dirty statement, if he had made it to me, I would have turned loose a cannon on him if I had possessed one, and so would you."

Coart said also that as McNeice "started to rise from his chair, he said: 'I have taken off of you all I am going to take.'"

Had Been Friends. A friendship extending over a considerable period of time existed between the Coarts and McNeices, both sides admitted, and the case caused bitter feeling in both Talbotton, where the parties lived, and in Columbus, where both sides had relatives and were well known. The legal battle was the most bitter in the history of Talbotton, and will long be remembered in the court annals of western Georgia.

Defending Coart was a large array of distinguished counsel, including Judge J. Bender Terrell, of Greenville, chief counsel; George C. Palmer and Judge Frank Foley, of Columbus, and A. J. Jones, of Macon, and J. Smith, of Talbotton. For the state appeared Hewlett A. Hall, of Newnan, former attorney general of Georgia; Solicitor General C. Frank McLaughlin, of Columbus; A. P. Persons, of Talbotton, and J. J. Bull, of Oglethorpe.

Right to Protect Home. The argument to the jury alone lasted eighteen hours, the entire sessions of two days. Judge Terrell urged "the right of every man to kill, if necessary, to protect his home, if McNeice to Coart's home when Coart was absent, but of the vile insult and abandoned declaration of the school man that nothing could stop his relations with Mrs. Coart."

The leading lawyer for the defense declared, and cited law tending to show that the right given by law to defend one's home extends to a case where the pronounced intention is made to keep up improper relations—not being necessary for the defense to actually witness such relations.

"The low would be nothing but the product of a fool's brain, gentlemen, if it required a man to actually see with his own eyes what the guilty man bragged about continuing, before he could shoot," Judge Terrell told the jury.

Attorney Hall told the jury that Coart was a cowardly murderer, under his own statement from the witness stand, and he was guilty regardless of the testimony.

20 Alleged Errors. The case went to the supreme court on upwards of twenty grounds of alleged error committed by the trial court. Judge George P. Munro, who tried the case, overruled Coart's motion for new trial when heard at Columbus in July, 1922.

Counsel for Coart contended in the appeal that, under the decision of the supreme court of Georgia, the testimony of Mrs. McNeice was inadmissible "because she was testifying to alleged facts by which it was sought to show Coart guilty of a separate crime—that of an assault—in order to prejudice the jury, to procure a verdict of guilty of murder." The supreme court met this contention, however, by citing numbers of its decisions—those in the Frank case and the Williams murder farm case, holding that evidence of the commission by the defendant of a separate crime could be admitted for the consideration of the jury, "provided it shed light on the motive of the defendant in the commission of the crime for which he was being tried." At Coart's trial Mrs. McNeice was put on the stand to testify to what the state said would establish his infatuation for her and motive for killing McNeice.

Attacked Confession. Counsel for Coart further contended that the alleged dying declaration, signed by McNeice not long before his death in the Piedmont Sanitarium, which Judge Munro admitted to the jury, was illegal evidence. The purported statement declared that Coart killed McNeice without cause, and after Coart had made remarks derogatory to McNeice, Mrs. McNeice and Mrs. Coart, and after McNeice had branded them lies.

Coart's lawyers urged that the statement was inadmissible because McNeice was not in a dying condition when he made it, if he made it at all (they charging that, in fact, the statement was a "frame-up"), and that if he was in a dying condition he did not know it, both conditions being required by law. McNeice signed the statement twice—once a week before his death and once not many hours before death.

One was a duplicate of the other, the statement having been signed a second time because McNeice died immediately after the first signature. The supreme court ruled adversely to the defense.

Up to the Jury. The supreme court ruled that the jury was authorized to believe McNeice knew he was in a dying condition when he signed the statement, there being evidence that physicians had so advised him, and that he died sufficiently soon after the second signature for the evidence to come within the legal requirement of the admissible. The statement was typewritten and was prepared for McNeice by persons interested in the prosecution, the evidence disclosed who testified they did so pursuant to McNeice's request.

At the Talbotton trial, Attorney Perryman, of counsel for Coart, told the jury "that John McGehee, the Talbotton lawyer who succeeded McNeice as school superintendent, framed that statement," which contention Coart's lawyers had attacked by McGehee the next day on the street. The appeal to the supreme court asked a new trial further on the ground that the trial judge mistated the defense of Coart to the jury. It contended that Judge Munro charged the jury that "it was the contention of Coart that he killed McNeice because the latter had been having intimate relations with the former's wife."

went uncorrected, and that the defendant could not be granted a new trial, especially when the trial judge also charged the main contention of the defense, "that Coart claimed he killed McNeice to prevent future, not past, intimate relations with Coart's wife." The high court held that the charge complained of was not sufficiently harmful to warrant a new trial, in the light of the acquiescence of counsel for the defense and of the additional charge demanded.

State Denied Charges. Throughout the case, counsel for the state denied that there had ever been any such relations as Coart charged, and that all such charges "were fabricated to save a man steeped in guilt from the gallows or the penitentiary. The state challenged the defense to produce anything against the character of either Mrs. Coart or Mrs. McNeice, but failed to do so.

There were numerous other grounds for a new trial, of a more or less technical nature, as "failure of the court below to charged specified sections of the code and failure to grant a new trial on newly discovered evidence." The latter consisted of affidavits attacking the character of Mrs. Coart and Mrs. McNeice, the one of which has been denied by them and their counsel.

Motion by State. The supreme court also had to pass upon a motion of the state to dismiss Coart's appeal on the ground that the state denied the record which the judge below certified to the supreme court as the true record, the law being that in any case going to an appeal cannot be changed after the trial judge's certificate has been made to it.

What happened, according to the state, was that, after Judge Munro certified the record in the Coart case, after he had refused a new trial, counsel for Coart asked Judge Munro to permit the record to be detached a part of it, and substitute a corrected memorandum, erasing an alleged defect. This desired correction related to a request of counsel for the defense made immediately after Judge Munro charged the jury, that he charge further that the statement of one of Coart's lawyers that Coart killed McNeice because of alleged past intimate relations was a mistake and did not bind Coart.

Judge Munro refused to charge further and counsel for Coart desired a memorandum explaining the incident incorporated in the record. Judge Munro permitted this to be done; but, according to counsel for the state, not until after he had certified the record in the case to the supreme court, and that hence the record in the supreme court was not the verbatim record certified by the judge as required by law, necessitating the supreme court's throwing the appeal out of court.

The high court denied the motion to dismiss on the ground that it was an essential part of the case, and under its own decisions, it could not go behind the trial judge's certificate that the record was the true record.

GRAND JURY PROBE OF STOKES CASE IS FORTHCOMING

Chicago, September 24.—Announcement that the grand jury would have an opportunity to investigate the charges of Mrs. Helen Elwood Stokes, that her husband, W. E. D. Stokes, wealthy New Yorker, had sought to ruin her reputation, was made today by Assistant State's Attorney Charles S. Wharton.

The announcement came after a week of bizarre testimony, with a climax at 2:30 o'clock this morning when Mrs. Stokes confronted a half dozen persons, mostly negroes, formerly attaches of resorts in the once segregated vice district on the south side. She defied any of them to identify her as an habituée of any resort and all professed themselves unable to do it, although some were alleged to have admitted they had signed affidavits to that effect, which they repudiated.

Robert H. Lee, negro, special deputy sheriff, was alleged to have confessed that he had been employed by representatives of Stokes to try to obtain evidence that she was an inmate before her marriage of the notorious "Everleigh club."

TRIPLE COLLISION PROBE IS ENDED

Mobile, Ala., September 24.—Investigation of the triple collision of the coast guard cutter Tallapoosa, the Japanese steamer Mitsu Maru and the United States shipping board tug Rascobel in the gulf several days ago, was completed here today by the investigating commission of the coast guard, and the report was sent to Washington.

Members of the commission, which included Lieutenant D. L. Brockway, Quinan, Lieutenant D. L. Brockway and Lieutenant F. A. L. Hinewell, refused to reveal the contents of their report. Neither would they give out any information as to where the responsibility for the accident lay.

"All I can say," said Lieutenant Commander Quinan, who presided over the investigation, "is that the damage was considerably less than at first estimated."

"The report was sent to Washington today and in about two weeks it will be made public. We have completely finished and will leave Mobile tonight."

The investigation has been under way here since last Wednesday. Members of the crews of all ships were questioned.

The accident occurred while the Tallapoosa was on the lookout for rum runners in the gulf, it is said.

Polite Druggist Falls for Beauty, Loses Narcotics

New Orleans, September 24.—A couple who gave their names as Mr. and Mrs. Emile Carpentier, of Birmenridge, Texas, was under arrest here tonight charged with having engineered what federal officers declared was something new in the theft of narcotics.

A pretty young woman, grimacing with pain, limped into a drug store this forenoon.

"A corn plaster, quick, please."

"May I put it on here," she asked, glancing about for a place of privacy.

The pharmacist piloted her to the only booth in the place, the prescription counter. Then he withdrew to the front of the store where a male customer was loudly demanding attention.

"Oh, thank you, sir," the woman said in dulcet tones as she departed, "you can't imagine how much you are helping me."

The pharmacist began to realize how much his help had been when he discovered a few moments later that his entire stock of morphine and cocaine had been stolen.

The police learned later that one pharmacy in Algiers, across the river, and at least three others in New Orleans had been victims in the same manner.

The authorities charge that Mrs. Carpentier was the score-footed young

Tax Commission To Close State Tour This Week

Hearings of the special tax commission, appointed by Governor Clifford Walker to investigate the financial needs and tax system of the state, will be resumed this morning at Columbus. Wednesday the commission will go to Albany and, if time permits, will motor to Dawson for an afternoon session also on that day.

Thursday's hearing will be held in Macon and on Friday the tour of the state will be closed with a hearing in Savannah. Extensive programs have been arranged at each city on the itinerary and Governor Walker is hopeful that important information on the vital topics to be reviewed will be forthcoming.

The governor and members of the commission are well pleased with the results of the hearings held last week in Rome, Augusta and Athens. The governor stated that the way in which people, of all occupations and all walks in life, had come forward to offer suggestions to the commission, at the same time making plain their entire unselfish attitude in the effort to solve the state's greatest problem, was extremely gratifying and held promise of important results from the commission's work.

After the tour of the state is completed, a number of hearings will be arranged for Atlanta during the month of October.

WOUNDED YOUTH NOW IMPROVING

William Ogle, Jr., 18-year-old son of William Ogle, Sr., 50 DeKalb avenue, who was shot and seriously wounded last Friday morning about 3 o'clock by Policeman E. C. Floyd, when Floyd and Policeman G. W. Richardson claim they thought Ogle and three companions were attempting to burglarize a gasoline filling station on Georgia avenue, is now improving.

The four boys, officers state, fled upon the approach of policemen and the latter gave chase, finally shooting young Ogle. He was rushed to Grady hospital where it was thought he was fatally injured. A transfusion of blood from the veins of T. H. Turk, one of his companions who was arrested by officers, probably saved the wounded boy's life.

Officers state they thought the boys were members of a gang of robbers who have been robbing filling stations, while the boys say that the officers shot without provocation. William Ogle, Sr., chief engineer at the Ansley hotel, has demanded a thorough probe of the shooting of his son.

Sick for Years, Rosecrans Tries To End His Life

E. R. Rosecrans, 53, of 92 Cleburne avenue, hovered between life and death Monday night at Georgia Baptist hospital, as the result of a bullet wound in his right chest, said to have been inflicted in a suicide attempt Monday afternoon. Officials at the hospital stated that he was in an extremely critical condition and that his chances for recovery were slight.

According to a report by Call Officer J. D. Williams, who investigated the shooting, Mrs. Rosecrans declared that her husband tried to take his life because "he was sick and tired of living."

Her husband was alone in a room at the time, she said, and when she heard the shot and she rushed to his side he attempted to wrap the pistol up in the bed clothing in an effort to hide it.

Rosecrans, until a few months ago, was division superintendent of aging cars for the Southern railroad, with headquarters at Charlotte, N. C. He had been in ill health for more than five years, Mrs. Rosecrans said, and recently had become very disconsolate.

The bullet entered the right chest ranging upward, and came out at the neck, doctors stated.

NO DATE DECIDED ON STIGALL PLEA FOR SECOND TRIAL
Attorneys William Schley Howard and James A. Branch, counsel for E. C. Stigall, were undecided Monday as to when they will formally ask for a new trial for the former vice squad head who is under sentence of 15 years imprisonment for manslaughter in the death of W. H. Hanes, private detective.

Attorney Howard declared Monday night that he and his partner had been busy with the trial of cases in Deatur during the day and had not found an opportunity to talk with their client.

Stigall made known his intentions of seeking a new trial shortly after his conviction Saturday. In event a new trial is denied the next step in the fight against the prison sentence will be an appeal to the supreme court.

CENTRAL CHURCH NEEDS $2,000 TO SATISFY LIEN
Members of the congregation of Central Baptist church must raise $2,000 at once to satisfy a judgment in favor of the Carolina-Portland Cement company or the property, which is located on Cooper street near Whitehall, will be sold at auction by Sheriff James I. Lowry, Tuesday, October 2.

The church was erected largely through the efforts of Rev. Caleb A. Ridley, who was pastor for many years, and who recently resigned to enter the lecture field.

A public sale of this property, to satisfy the building material lien, was ordered in July, but was stayed by a payment of $1,000 which the congregation raised at that time.

COMMITTEE WILL SEEK $40,000 FOR NEGROES
Plans to improve the Georgia Industrial School for Negroes, a part of the Georgia university system, located at Savannah, and to obtain $40,000 from the legislature at the 1924 session to take the place of funds formerly furnished by the general education board were outlined Monday at a meeting of the university trustees at the capitol.

The need for the $40,000 appropriation was indicated by the exhaustion of the $100,000 fund appropriated to cover a two and one-half-year period by the general board. That fund will be exhausted in July, 1924, the committee stated.

AUTHOR WILL ADDRESS CHRISTIAN MEN'S CLUB
Harry Stillwell Edwards, Georgia author, will address the regular meeting of the Men's club of the Liberal Christian church at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at the home of T. C. Perkins, 254 North Moreland avenue. The speaker will be introduced by Walter McElreath.

NINTH WARD LEAGUE TO ELECT OFFICERS
Ninth ward development league officers will be elected by its executive committee at the residence of G. C. Adams, 72 Sterling street, at 7:30 o'clock tonight. Date will also be set for the first general membership meeting. Present officers are John M. Miller, president; E. D. Peters, vice president, and G. C. Adams, secretary.

$12,000 Is Voted To Continue Work On City's Streets

A prospective deficit of $32,000 in the city's 1925 accounts was adjusted by the finance committee of council in the October appropriation sheet, which was prepared and approved for council's adoption at a meeting Monday morning.

Threatened stoppage of all street and sidewalk repair work in Atlanta was averted by the committee, as the result of an additional appropriation of $12,000 for the work in the October sheet.

Councilman Claude L. Ashley, chairman of the street committee of council, informed the finance committee that the street repair funds were exhausted and that approximately $20,000 would be needed.

The prospective deficit in the city's accounts of $32,000 prevented the finance committee from making larger appropriation, but it was stated that the additional $12,000 would relieve the situation to a great extent.

It was stated that the city's financial condition is better now than it has been in several years. The strict program of economy inaugurated by Mayor Sims when he took office will result in reducing the amount of the annual deficit even though it will not remove it entirely.

The committee was compelled by lack of funds to turn a deaf ear to the plea for a new Grady hospital ambulance, voiced by Steve R. Johnston, superintendent of the hospital. Only one ambulance is now fit for service, he said, and much suffering and possible death will result from the inability of the city to replace the one to reach accident cases promptly.

A new ambulance, to cost $3,000, will be one of the first provisions made in the 1924 budget, members of the council asserted.

Although no deficit at the end of 1923 appeared certain Monday, Comptroller B. Graham West stated that a deficit would probably develop because some sources of revenue have been estimated at too high a figure.

Claims Overestimated.
Comptroller West pointed out to the committee several large items on which it had overestimated the probable revenue. Tax for the past year taxes have produced only $301,000, of an estimated $400,000; business licenses have produced only $336,500 of an anticipated $400,000; sewer assessments have produced only $23,500 of an anticipated $45,000.

The ad valorem tax collections were declared, however, to be "encouraging in view of past experience. Nearly $5,000,000 of the approximately $7,000,000 estimated income of the city was based on the ad valorem tax prospects and collections up to date have been proportionately one-third greater than last year. This situation is due to a large tax total and to the declared intention of the city authorities to enforce the collections to the letter of the law, imposing a penalty on all taxpayers who do not pay up on or before October 15, and offering for sale December 1 all property on which taxes have not been paid when the books closed October 15.

Alderman W. B. Hartshoff saved the McDonough road bridge project by inducing the committee to retain a $18,000 appropriation for it in the budget, after Councilman Allen Cough had sought to transfer it to the street repair fund. Support of the Southern railway and the Georgia Railway and Power company for the bridge would have been withdrawn had the city's appropriation been withdrawn. Work on the bridge is slated to start within the present year.

EDITORS ENTERTAINED AT SAVANNAH PARTY

Savannah, Ga., September 24.—(Special.)—That newspapers and newspaper men are sometimes given expressions of appreciation by those whom they serve was illustrated here today when nearly a hundred editors and publishers and managers from the first and parts of the twelfth and second districts were guests of honor at a party with numerous hosts, chief among them the Tri-State Exposition directors, who were assisted in receiving and entertaining by the board of trade, the local newspapers, the Rotary, Kiwanis, Civitan, Lions, American Business and other clubs of the city. The idea came from the fair folk whom the papers have aided in giving generous publicity to the exposition to be held October 27 to November 3 for this entire section—they wished to show appreciation in a concrete manner. Every editor was presented with a handsome badge signifying that he had been elected an honorary director of the Tri-State and carrying all the courtesies and privileges of directors and stockholders—except the liability to share in the work. This was a surprise to the visitors.

They were met at the trains, assembled at the De Soto, taken in autos to the dock and carried to Tybee Island on the McCawley and the Islandoga. At Fort Stevens they were entertained by the famous old Eighth, the last American troops to leave Germany. Motored to Tybee station they were banqueted at the hotel, the meal being typical of the seashore. After a program of variety, they were motored along the new highway back to town, served evening lunch, taken as guests to the theater and left with cordial thanks for coming.

Mangled Corpse Of Harlem Man Found Under Car

Harlem, Ga., September 24.—(Special.)—F. M. Hatcher was found dead tonight at about 7 o'clock, pinned under his automobile about fifty miles north of here. Horribly mangled, the body was crushed down by the entire weight of the automobile, which was turned completely over. Mystery surrounds the cause of the accident, no one being with Mr. Hatcher when the wreck occurred.

It is thought that he had been dead about an hour when the body was discovered by motorists, who brought it here.

Mr. Hatcher had driven to Appling court house and was returning when the machine turned over. He was a member of the firm of Hatcher Brothers, and had been in the dry goods and shoe business here practically all his life, first with his father, W. E. Hatcher, and later with his brother, E. M. Hatcher. He leaves a widow, his father, three brothers, E. M. Hatcher, of Harlem, George Hatcher, of Social Circle, Ga., and V. F. Hatcher, of Atlanta; and one sister, Miss Evelyn Hatcher, at Wesleyan college, Macon, Ga.

Mr. Hatcher was a prominent Mason and Shriner.

Cork, Linseed Oil, Burlap —that's Linoleum

MILLIONS of people have linoleum in their homes. They know what a good flooring it is. And increasing thousands desire linoleum as their flooring, too. Unfortunately, they do not always get linoleum. They are a little uncertain as to what linoleum is; so sometimes they buy floor coverings that look like linoleum, but which are not actually linoleum. Perhaps you are one of these. It is to help you to buy intelligently that we are going to tell you how linoleum is made.

What linoleum is

Linoleum is composed of powdered cork and oxidized linseed oil pressed out to strong burlap. Now, cork is tough. It is the bark of the cork oak tree. Cut a piece of cork and see how tough it is. Cork gives to linoleum its durability, its capacity to wear for years.

Cork is resilient, springs. It gives its resilience to linoleum. Cork does not absorb moisture. The linoleum surface is practically waterproof.

Linoleum gets its name from linseed oil. Exposed to the air, linseed oil oxidizes, turning into a tough, solid, rubbery film. Powdered cork and oxidized linseed oil unite perfectly to make a resilient, durable, yet flexible floor material.

Why linoleum is hard to tear

Burlap is made from jute, which comes from India. Heavy rope is made from jute. The cork and linseed oil composition is pressed or "keyed" into the burlap under huge rollers weighing many tons. The burlap back gives linoleum its tensile strength. You can identify sturdy, nontearing, flexible linoleum by its burlap back. Look for the burlap weave.

That is one sure way to know you are getting linoleum, not something with a pattern like linoleum on the top surface.

With this picture in your mind of what linoleum is and how it is made, you can more easily understand why Armstrong's Linoleum makes a permanent flooring when carefully laid by a linoleum layer, and likewise why it is so resilient, so foot-easy to the tread. You also will know why it deadens noise—because cork deadens sound.

Only those who have actually used linoleum, however, know the work it saves.

Why linoleum is easy to clean

The linoleum floor is smooth. It contains no cracks for dirt to collect in; therefore, none for germs to breed in. It requires no scrubbing. Surface dirt is readily wiped away. A thorough waxing strong's Linoleum you will find beautiful plain colors and two-tone Jaspé effects, also marble inlays, tile inlays, and neat matting and carpet patterns in printed linoleum.

These offer beautiful backgrounds for your rugs and enhance the decorations of your rooms. You can buy linoleum suitable for any room or any color scheme.

Laying linoleum for permanency

In summer, wood floors expand. In winter, they dry out and contract, with a tendency to open up the cracks between the boards. Your linoleum floor, therefore, should be cemented (not tacked) over a lining of builders' deadening felt which has been previously glued to the bare floor boards. The felt takes up expansion and contraction and gives you a permanent, waterproof, good-looking floor. The added service and wear this method gives are well worth the extra cost.

Write for free sample and booklet

Let us send you a sample of Armstrong's Linoleum and our 24-page booklet, "New Floors for Old," containing a score of color plates of distinctive designs that you can see at good furniture and department stores—Jaspés, carpet inlays, tile inlays, and printed patterns; linoleum rugs, printed and inlaid. Information on laying linoleum floors, their care, and the names of merchants who sell Armstrong's Linoleum and do good laying, will be included.

A modern breakfast room which has a floor of Armstrong's Inset Tile Linoleum when first laid, a daily dust-cleaning with a slightly waxed mop, and an occasional rewaxing are ordinarily all it needs. Then you have a permanent floor as well as a permanently spick and sanitary floor. And though it is a glowing, polished floor, it is yet a nonslippery floor. It is also a warm floor, fully as warm as wood, when your feet touch it on winter mornings.

See the designs at good stores. Then, there is the beauty of the new linoleum designs and colorings. In Arm-

COOLIDGE ASKED TO AID VETERANS

Washington, September 24.—President Coolidge was asked by the Veterans of Foreign Wars today to recommend to congress the enactment of legislation permitting the veterans' bureau to furnish hospital treatment to veterans of all wars, regardless of whether the disability or illness was of service origin.

The request, together with a half dozen other proposals, was presented to the president by a delegation headed by Brigadier General Lloyd M. Brett, commander-in-chief of the organization, and accompanied by Director Hines of the veterans' bureau. Members of the delegation said they found the president greatly interested in their recommendations which included:

"Appointment of a committee on veteran legislation in the house of representatives to be composed as far as possible of former service men.

"Codification of veterans' bureau laws and a unification of rating scales for compensation and vocational training.

"Enactment of necessary and adequate legislation for the relief of all veterans of all wars, giving special attention to the disabled.

"Grant of sufficient appropriations for the adequate national defense of the country with no further reduction of the army or navy.

"Enactment of strict naturalization and immigration laws.

The delegation in a communication left with Secretary Stump urged early enactment of the soldier bonus bill, but in the conference with the president, it was not discussed.

STEALTHY SEARCH FOR FLOGGERS TOLD

Dr. Steve Wright's drug store, near the hall, when Dr. Yarbrough entered the place. He asserted that he then recognized the dentist as the leader of the floggers.

In response to questions by Attorney Ross regarding whether or not the dentist was afraid of being recognized, he said that many of them pulled their hats down, so their faces could not be seen. The attorney who at the Mills' trial admitted that he was a member of the Ku Klux Klan, asked if he had been recognized by the witness. "I didn't hide, did I?" the attorney asked.

"No, you walked up and down the sidewalk. You may have been on guard, was the reply.

Tolson said that he told Dr. G. T. Miller, his physician, and Patrolman Spier about the flogging the day after the riot, and on the next day saw Solicitor General Charles Garrett. He was questioned about newspaper articles he had read regarding rewards and asserted he thought nothing of them. He also said he had made no effort to have Dr. Yarbrough arrested. The complaint in the case was signed by a deputy sheriff named Holmes.

Barnett was asked by the defense if he did not go to see Rev. T. F. Callaway, a Methodist minister, and ask him to preach a sermon against the Ku Klux Klan. He said that he sent for the minister. He denied that he had told the minister he could not recognize any of the floggers, asserting that he had told the minister that he "did not know" any of them.

He declared at the close of the cross examination, that Dr. Yarbrough was not disguised the night of the flogging.

Threatening Letter.

An anonymous letter Barnett said he found lying on his desk threatening to flog him again as he did not do certain things for members of his family was introduced. Efforts of the defense to get into the testimony certain questions regarding Barnett's alleged conduct toward his family were overruled.

Selection of the jury to try Dr. Yarbrough for the second time got under way today after a demurrer by the defense had been overruled and Chief Counsel Ross had filed a formal demand for trial of all nine of the defendants in the flogging cases. The demand was entered on the court minutes and under the Georgia law all must be tried either during the trial or the December term of the defendants would be automatically discharged and could not be tried on the charges now against them.

The jury was completed at 3:45 o'clock this afternoon when the state, having its seven peremptory challenges.

32 Talesmen Called.

Thirty-two talesmen were examined before the jury was completed. The defense challenged seven peremptorily after attempting to have several discharged for cause, the state challenged four and two were excused for having fixed opinions.

T. H. Mosely, the first talesman, was challenged by the state. C. M. Clifton, Jr., was challenged by the defense for cause and asked that he be examined by the court. The defense claimed that they were prepared to prove the juror incompetent on the ground that he had formed and expressed an opinion. The progress of the selection of jurors was delayed 20 minutes while attorneys and court looked up law and precedents.

Judge Gunn, after both sides had handed him a series of decisions of the supreme court, read several passages from these and ruled that the defense must produce evidence to support its claim. The defense then read a series of questions it desired to ask the talesman and all were declared by Judge Gunn to be improper. The defense then excused Mr. Clifton, using the first of its seven peremptory challenges.

E. Hall, a carpenter, was peremptorily challenged by the state.

R. L. Holloman, a bookkeeper, was challenged for cause by the defense alleging incompetency and prejudice and asked that the court question him. He was then peremptorily challenged.

W. R. Higginson declared he had formed an opinion in regard to Dr. Yarbrough's case and was excused for cause.

J. B. Burkett, a carpenter, was the first juror passed by both sides. He took his place in the jury box.

J. H. Rath, bookkeeper, was accepted by both sides.

W. C. Mangham was challenged by the state.

H. P. Heath, a bank clerk, when examined asked permission to make a statement. He stated that he had formed an opinion regarding the guilt of Dr. Yarbrough on his former trial but that he believed that his mind was clear and that he felt he was not biased in regard to the present case. Judge Gunn held that the talesman was competent and the defense challenged him for cause. Judge Gunn refused to grant the challenge and the defense challenged him peremptorily.

Court Overrules Move.

T. C. Drew, a furniture dealer, was the third juror selected.

M. T. Subers, a bookkeeper, was challenged for cause on the ground that he had made the assertion that he was against the Ku Klux Klan and that if what was published in the newspapers, in the previous trial, was true, he believed Yarbrough guilty. He asked the court to question the juror but the motion was overruled. The defense asked time to find a witness to support its charge but this was denied and the talesman peremptorily challenged.

R. G. Williamson, salesman, was the fourth juror accepted by both sides.

W. H. Harrison, a machinist, was challenged for cause by the defense. Attorney Ross asking the court to ask the talesman if he was a member of the Roman Catholic church and if he was not prejudiced against the defendant because he wrote a book which he (Harrison) considered slandered the Roman Catholic church. The challenge was overruled and the defense used its fifth peremptory challenge.

S. R. Parker, a farmer, was the fifth juror selected.

W. J. Juhan, merchant, was the sixth juror.

S. T. Player, traveling salesman, was selected as juror number seven. The other talesmen said they had fixed opinions and were excused. The defense peremptorily challenged A. F. Holt, Jr., a real estate man. S. E. Crockett, a cooper, was accepted by both sides and a moment later J. T. Sessions, a collector, was accepted as juror number nine. A. G. Martin, a clerk, was accepted by both sides.

H. Moore, a work, was challenged for cause by the defense, but Judge Gunn refused to grant the challenge and the defense accepted him. The defense had only one peremptory challenge remaining and used it soon afterward to prevent H. S. Stipp, a clerk in the office of the Macon Telegraph, being seated as the twelfth juror.

J. A. Ashill, bookkeeper, was accepted by the state and seated, completing the jury.

Stir Is Created.

H. S. Shipps, clerk in the office of the Macon Telegraph, created a stir when he was challenged for cause by the defense and Attorney Ross alleged as the reason for his challenge that Shipps was an employee of W. T. Anderson, editor of the Telegraph, and that any employee of a man who had taken the stand Mr. Anderson had in connection with the flogging cases could not help but be biased. Mr. Shipps at this point asked the court if he might ask a question. On being told that he could be asked "if being an employee of the Telegraph disqualifies a man, how is it that you already have a Telegraph man on the jury," Judge Ross said that this was the first inkling he had that this was the first inkling he had that Shipps was on the jury and it developed that J. T. Sessions, a collector of the Telegraph, had been the ninth juror accepted by both sides.

Five Balloonists Lose Lives In Quest for Noted Trophy

Two American, Two Swiss and One Spanish Pilot Are Sacrificed by Lightning Strokes.

Brussels, September 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The international balloon race for the Gordon Bennett cup developed into an international disaster. Already five men have lost their lives, one is believed to be fatally injured, and no fewer than six balloons were destroyed or badly damaged.

Lieutenants Olmsted and Shoptaw, of the United States army S-6, are among those who perished, but the United States navy A-690 made a safe landing at Patten, Holland.

Some of the contestants have not been heard from; they may have escaped the fury of the storm, or met the same fate as the British balloon, Margaret, the latest to be reported, which fell into the sea, off Denmark.

The casualty list is as follows: United States army S-6 struck by lightning and burned; Lieutenants Olmsted and Shoptaw killed.

The Spanish balloon, Polar, caught fire from a lightning bolt and fell near Heyst-Goor; Pilot Barca killed and his assistant, Gomez Guillaumon badly injured.

The Geneva, Swiss, struck by lightning near Beverloo and burned in mid air. Her pilot, Von Grunigen and Wehrn, killed.

Ville De Bruxelles, Belgian, damaged before the start and withdrawn. Margaret, British, fell into the sea near Skagen, Denmark. Pilots Allen and Berry saved.

Saint Louis, American, burst before start.

These Are Safe.

So far as reported late tonight, the following balloons had made safe landings: United States navy A-690, Lieutenants Lawrence and Reichelderfer, landed at Patten, Holland.

Fernandes Duro, Spain, at Shryck, Holland.

Banshee, III, British, at Eersel, Holland.

Zurich, Swiss, at Eersel. Savoie, French, at Turnhout, Belgium.

Fernandez, II, French near Antwerp. The Belgica, Belgian, is reported to have landed, but this is not confirmed.

A message from Pilot Veenstra, of the Blenheim and Ravanne; the Helvetia, Swiss; Armbruster and Bachman, and the Esperia, Spanish, piloted by Guillein, have not been heard from.

Protests to Managers.

A general protest against the officials in charge of the James Gordon Bennett cup race for not postponing the start of the balloons yesterday in the face of the adverse weather conditions was raised by the evening newspapers today. They expressed astonishment that the event should be held in the first place have been set for a date during the autumn equinoctial period when they say unsettled weather is to be expected.

The president and vice president of the Belgian Aero club declared this evening that the rules of the race are agreed upon, the day and hour are agreed upon, the start must be made at that time. The president said he could hardly understand why some of the pilots had made complaints. "The pilots have had full liberty to cancel their engagement if they considered the weather conditions too dangerous."

"Everybody noticed how low the American racers flew," he added. The army balloon S-6 started in a bad direction, missing the route taken by its predecessors under identical conditions.

All the pilots sending their craft immediately to a high altitude he continued, avoided the thunderstorm which caught the others. He concluded that the weather was no worse than at Geneva last year when there was a thunderstorm lasting an hour and a half.

COLLUSION MADE DYE SALES GOOD

the alien property organization became officers of the Chemical Foundation, Inc., the brief says "no one can read this evidence without reaching the conclusion that the representatives of the dye and chemical industry proposed to foreclose any opposition to this transaction by making the officers and agents of the United States the officers and agents of their prospective corporation."

"This sale was procured by those interested in the dye and chemical industry, through the American Dye Institute," the brief continues, "by methods and for purposes entirely contrary to the objects and aims of the trading with the enemy act; in a manner which constitutes a violation of the trust imposed upon the alien property custodian by that act and his position with respect to that property; and for purposes and by methods which were in conflict with the laws of the United States."

After reviewing the negotiations leading up to the organization of the foundation and the actual seizure and sale of the dye and chemical patents, the brief charges that "the dye and chemical manufacturers, now grown bold, proposed through the war trade board, to override the entire inter-allied council, of which the president himself was a member."

Palmer at the peace conference and on the day before the first of these sales took place, Mr. Garin, then alien property custodian, and the president of the chemical foundation, cabled Mr. Bradley Palmer with respect to the proposed importation into the United States of reparations dyes for which the president had arranged in the peace negotiations:

"Doubtful if any dyes will be used even if imported. You may face a new tea party."

"In other words they not only proposed to prevent importations, if the president, sitting in Paris, undertook to arrange for such importation we might face a new tea party—a new revolution in the United States."

by Sweet Rose

If I tell you that I've found the best way in the world to make hot biscuits you'll be interested, won't you? My way is so simple and easy that I want to tell you about it.

Just try working two tablespoons of lard or butter into a quart of Sweet Rose Self-Rising Flour with your finger tips. Then stir in a cup of cold milk or water. Roll out on a lightly floured board, cut and bake in a quick oven ten to fifteen minutes. But see that your dough is soft before putting in the oven.

Be sure that your oven is very hot, and above all, do not add sour milk, soda or baking powder to your mixture. That's the good thing about Sweet Rose Self-Rising Flour, the leavening is already mixed just right.

If you'll just follow this simple advice you will find that with hardly any time or trouble you can make the tastiest, most delicious biscuits that ever melted in your mouth. Remember, you can't buy better flour than Sweet Rose. It may cost a bit more per sack but its quality always tells in your baking.

PRINCETON ALUMNI WILL CONVEY HERE

For the first time in its history the National Alumni association of Princeton University will meet in a southern state, the 1924 convention having just been awarded to Atlanta, according to Postmaster Edwin K. Large, of the Atlanta Princeton committee.

Announcement that Atlanta's invitation to the association has been accepted was given in a letter to the postmaster from George K. Reed, of New York, chairman of the national committee. Plans for the gathering will be laid at a meeting to be held October 6 at Madison hall, in New York city.

Several thousand Princeton alumni are expected to attend the convention, it is stated. Hugh Richardson is chairman of the local Princeton committee.

The department of the interior is opening up 4,240 acres of public land in Nevada to world war veterans. Filing will take place September 19, at Carson City.

COLON POISONING DESTROYS HEALTH

Hastens Old Age and Premature Degeneration of All Vital Organs.

It is a wise man who understands his colon and keeps it in perfect working order. Health, happiness, vigor and long life are the gifts which an active colon can give you—and a lazy colon can take away.

Your colon is the last five feet of your digestive canal. It is your sewerage system; your garbage can, so to speak. Keep it clean and you are well and happy; let it stagnate and it will distill the poisons of decay, fermentation (gas) and putrefaction into your blood, poisoning your brain and nerves so that you are restless, irritable and blue; poisoning your heart so that you are weak, listless and lazy; poisoning your lungs so that your breath is heavy or foul; poisoning your stomach and digestive organs so that you are bloated, belching and uncomfortable with gas pains; poisoning your blood so that your skin looks yellow, sallow and unhealthy; poisoning every part and organ of your body, through your blood, making you look and feel old and ugly long before your time; making your joints and your back stiff, your eyes dull and your brain sluggish.

By the perfect law of Nature, your colon should empty itself three times a day—within an hour after eating. Does your colon work that well? If not, it has lost its tone. What do we mean by tone? Your colon is a hollow muscle. Its walls are made up of long, muscle fibres or muscle cells

ASKS COURT BAN ON DIVORCED WIFE VISITING CHILDREN

Charging that Mrs. Mary Boseman, his former wife, has threatened to kidnap their three children, now in the home for the friendless, B. B. Glass asked for a court injunction Monday to restrain Mrs. Boseman from visiting the home.

According to Glass, he and his wife separated several months ago, after which they were divorced. Since then she has remarried, he alleges. Recently, according to Glass, Mrs. Boseman visited their three children at the home and tried to poison their minds against him. Glass is represented by Attorney George F. Fielding.

OTHER WOMEN GIVEN AS DIVORCE GROUNDS

Charging that her husband spent his earnings on other women and at times did not even provide fuel for his own home, Mrs. Mattie W. Coleman Monday filed suit for divorce against L. J. Coleman. Mrs. Coleman asks for custody of their three children. She is represented by Attorney W. S. Coburn.

MORE PROTECTION PROMISED PARKS BY POLICE CHIEF

When Grant park rowdies got so bold as to steal a pistol out of his car while he was attempting to arrest one of their number L. L. Wallis, general manager of the city parks, concluded that heroic measures for their suppression were justified.

Forthwith he appealed to Chief of Police James L. Beavers for additional police protection at the park, which is to be supplied, and appeared in recorder's court Monday to prosecute R. B. Guthrie, of East Georgia avenue, for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty. Guthrie was fined $15 and costs by Recorder Johnson. Mr. Wallis, as manager of parks, is clothed with full police power.

Conditions have become so bad in Grant park, it was stated during the police court trial, that it is not a safe place for women and children. "We are going to clean it out right now," Mr. Wallis said, "and any more horse play is going to mean stockade sentences for the players."

FORSYTH PLAYERS WILL BE GUESTS OF A. H. MARTIN

The Forsyth theater players will be guests Tuesday morning of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Martin on a sight-seeing tour of Atlanta and vicinity. In the evening Mr. Martin will entertain his guests at a reception and dance at the Elks' club, 40 East Ellis street, to which all Elks and their ladies are invited. Admission will be by card only.

Harris to Present Bill for Reduced Parcel Post Rates

Senator William J. Harris stated Monday that he would introduce a bill in the next congress to reduce parcel post rates from the country to the city in order to help the farmer market his products. Marketing, he said, would be expedited by having postmasters distribute price lists. The bill will also provide for an increase in the salary of employees in the delivery department of the postal service.

Mrs. Watson, the sister of Mrs. Justiss, told newspaper men Saturday that her sister had been out of work for several weeks and had acted queerly for some time.

She said Mrs. Justiss constantly brooded over her embarrassing circumstances and unemployment and that when "DeWitt" told Ollie he was going to leave her, she simply went to pieces. Mrs. Watson said that her sister was "deeply in love" with Turner and the two had been sweethearts for many months.

Mrs. Watson also told of lunacy in her family, stating that two uncles had died in an asylum and that her mother, Mrs. C. M. Coombs, disappeared from her home in Moreland, near Newnan, 18 months ago and all efforts to trace her whereabouts had failed to locate her.

Preyed on Her Mind.

"That," she said, "preyed on Ollie's mind."

"Ollie has looked at times like she was insane," said Mrs. Watson, "especially so when she had one of her fits of jealousy about DeWitt."

She was frantically in love with the man and the mere mention of him going with some other girl would set her wild. Her love for that man was so great it was abnormal and frequently got beyond control.

"My sister and DeWitt were engaged to be married as soon as she obtained her first degree of divorce. They were very much in love with each other."

"Ollie was just mad with fear that DeWitt was going to leave her when she shot him, and she did it without realizing what she was doing."

form of the man into her arms and cried out: "I loved him because I loved him." A Grady hospital ambulance was summoned by passersby and the dying man, still clutching in the arms of his slayer, was rushed to the hospital. He died a few seconds after being placed in the ambulance and before the hospital was reached.

Why She Killed.

Mrs. Justiss was immediately taken into custody, admitted the killing, declaring she had killed Turner because she loved him and because he had said that he intended leaving Atlanta and never seeing her again. For many hours after she was arrested she was extremely hysterical and it was necessary to summon physicians to administer opiates.

Mrs. Justiss recently obtained a first decree of a divorce from her husband and stated that Turner had promised to marry her when the final divorce had been granted. Her five-year-old daughter, Audrey Jeanette, is being cared for at the Child's Home in Atlanta for the present and is still unaware of the fearful tragedy in which her mother was a principal Saturday.

Had Acted Queerly.

Mrs. Watson, the sister of Mrs. Justiss, told newspaper men Saturday that her sister had been out of work for several weeks and had acted queerly for some time.

SOUTHERN SERIES WILL START TODAY AT FORT WORTH

Fred Digby Thinks Pelican Pitchers Will Stop Texans; Teams' Chances Discussed

Rival Clubs Appear To Be Weak Against Southpaws — Fort Worth Roster Shows Some Clouters.

BY FRED DIGBY.

Fort Worth, Texas, September 24.—(Special.)—On the eve of the fourth annual Dixie baseball championship—the "little world's series"—the New Orleans Pelicans, Southern association champions, are confident that they will repeat the victory of the Mobile Bears of 1922, defeat the Fort Worth Panthers, winners of four successive Texas league pennants, and thus finish the 1923 season as champions of Dixieland. And they have every reason to feel confident. The series opens at Fort Worth Tuesday afternoon. Two games will be played in the Texas city, the teams and fans of both cities entering for New Orleans after Wednesday's game. Play will be resumed here Saturday and continued through Monday.

Attendance records for each city will be broken during this series. Arrangements have been made to accommodate 15,000 fans and President Heinemann has announced that all box and reserved seats have already been sold for the first two contests at New Orleans.

Pitching is a big factor in a seven-game series and pitching is something the Pelicans have. Fact is, Gilbert, who has been made to accommodate 15,000 fans and President Heinemann has announced that all box and reserved seats have already been sold for the first two contests at New Orleans.

Pitching is a big factor in a seven-game series and pitching is something the Pelicans have. Fact is, Gilbert, who has been made to accommodate 15,000 fans and President Heinemann has announced that all box and reserved seats have already been sold for the first two contests at New Orleans.

A "Pitching Series." That this is going to be a pitching series is generally conceded. But there are other angles to be considered in sizing up the two outfits and we rate the Pelicans superior to the Panthers in all departments save one—their offense does not compare with that of the Texas league champions. Atz has three players punching the ball at better than a .300 clip—two real sluggers in Kraft and Hoffman, whereas the Pelicans have only one slugger, Tucker. Manager Gilbert is a natural .300 hitter, however, and only injuries prevented him from being up with the bat leaders.

Despite the fact that the Pelicans' team average is under .270 it has been good enough to keep them playing 900 baseball all season. Figures show they have managed to win with fewer runs per game than the Panthers, which indicates that what they lack in slugging is balanced by their ability to hit when their means run, to outwit the enemy by clever base running and to make the most of every error of omission and commission.

They are just as liable as not to go hit crazy in this series. The team is surely a better hitting outfit than the Panthers in all departments save one—their offense does not compare with that of the Texas league champions. Atz has three players punching the ball at better than a .300 clip—two real sluggers in Kraft and Hoffman, whereas the Pelicans have only one slugger, Tucker. Manager Gilbert is a natural .300 hitter, however, and only injuries prevented him from being up with the bat leaders.

Perhaps after the Texas fans see old champions they will call them "Hitless Wonders," but that will only proved without seriously affecting his defense.

Barring accidents or illness, neither manager will do much shifting of players. Schick, however, is going in such form at this time that Gilbert is going to give him a lot of consideration before definitely deciding upon his lineup. Larry will do whatever he thinks best, regardless of what anybody else says, but unless he is wrong in our estimation of Schick and Gilbert, Maury will get into this series early.

The players listed by the two aggregations as eligible for the series are 32 in number. Atz, being a bench manager, isn't included in the Fort Worth 16 which consists of Moore and Haworth, catchers; Stoner, Pate, Johns, Watchel, Rose and Goodred, pitchers; Kraft, first base; Hoffman, second base; Tavenner, shortstop; Rapp, third base; Phelan, utility; Sears, left field; Calvo, center field; Edgington, right field.

DANVILLE TEAM GIVEN PURSE BY FANS

Danville, Va., September 24.—The Danville team, in the Piedmont league circuit, disbanded immediately after winning the first game of the series. Manager, "Hero" Murphy said that no post-season series would be played with winners of the Virginia league and the South Atlantic league, as had been reported.

Murphy held that with the Piedmont pennant series over, there would not have been the interest in a series with Wilson, N. C., or Charlotte, N. C.

Several of the men left today for their homes in distant states for a brief respite before engaging in their winter occupations. While the local team members did not profit financially by any division of the gate receipts, the local fans subscribed $1500 to be divided among the Danville players.

SYRIA YOKES OF TURKS RECALLED

London, September 24.—An exchange telegraph dispatch from Constantinople today says it has been learned from Anatolia that the situation in the region of Aleppo, Syria, has become very grave, with 95 per cent of the population demanding full restoration to Turkey.

Syria, a former province of Turkey in Asia, was made an independent state after the war and placed under French mandate.

STODDARD-CATHART PIGEONS LEAD RACE

W. J. Stoddard's homing pigeons finished first in the week-end Atlanta Homing Pigeon club race held Saturday from Spartanburg, S. C., to Atlanta.

T. F. Cathart's bird won second prize, clocking at 2:18:53. The birds were liberated in Spartanburg by L. T. Marshall at 7:45 Saturday morning.

Do you think the Giants will pay $200,000 in money for Rogers Hornsby when they now have a second baseman as good as any that ever held hands to a baseball in Frankie Frisch?

Each club has one utility player, Art Phelan, an infielder, is the Panther's helping hand, while Maury Schick is the Pelicans' handy-Andy. Gilbert has the edge of Atz as he has several players of all-around ability, while in some of the shifts Larry can make his offense can actually be improved.

Secret Practice Starts In Oglethorpe Grid Camp

Plays That Coach Robertson Has Worked Out Will Be Given Squad for Tilt With Jackets.

BY BILL MORROW.

Grid fans journeying out to Oglethorpe university with the hope of getting a line on Coach Robertson's Stormy Petrels, should profit by this yarn and save carfare or gas by the case may be, for no longer is the general public allowed to follow the Petrels through their daily practices. Not that a well of secrecy surrounds the Petrel camp or that a password has to be given in order to get the least glimpse of this clan, but with the first game of their season only a few days off, the need of a few private workouts is a necessity.

This week promises to be an important one for the little colony of football candidates from Oglethorpe. With the Jacket combination the first few, one could hardly say that the Petrels' director picked a setup for September 23, and realizing the great test that comes this week-end, the Petrels are working hard in an effort to make their debut as a team.

The Petrels' director picked a setup for September 23, and realizing the great test that comes this week-end, the Petrels are working hard in an effort to make their debut as a team. The Jacket combination is a big favorite, the most enthusiastic Petrel supporter is the other three, and accounts for the Petrels' success. Besides Morris, Credid, Kilgore and Wallace have previous experience in this line. Morris' presence in the Petrel lineup is most imperative, account of his punting. Last season his average of punting was high and several of his kicks were around the sixty-yard mark. Morris has been used in the capacity of quarterback during the practice session, but if the demand arises he can easily be shifted to any other position, having played these while in prep school or earlier years at Oglethorpe.

$700,000 Wanted For Improvement Of Police Service

Police department improvements for next year to cost $700,000 are being urged by Jesse W. Armistead, chairman of the police committee of council, he indicated in conversing with members of council Monday.

General salary increases ranging from 2 to 30 per cent of present salaries, addition of 50 new police to the police department and a new central police station and substations in the outlying districts will be the proposed improvements.

$120,000 Salary Raises. Salary increases are estimated to cost $120,000 a year. Additional policemen will cost about $80,000 per year. The new police stations would be built by a bond issue of $100,000 in all, $50,000, the expense to be met through a period of 30 years to come.

Alderman Armistead asserted that the police department is in a desperate financial straits. He said the police salaries now paid policemen and the disreputable looking central police station.

It is a crying shame that the Atlanta policemen are given such a mere pittance in the way of wages, said Alderman Armistead. "These men are the backbone of the city, they protect the welfare of Atlanta. Do you know of any other class of men in such a hazardous vocation, receiving such a low compensation?"

He talked with a number of members of council and they have agreed that the wages of the police officers should be increased.

Station Insanitary. "As for the present police station," he said, "no individual can be guilty of any crime, other than a capital one, so heinous as the crime Atlanta commits every day. It is a human being to a cell in this old police barracks we have now. It is insanitary, unsafe and insecure, and every other thing that a police station should not be."

"It is apparent, also," he concluded, "that it will take at least 50 more men assigned to traffic duty to enforce the traffic laws, protect human life and relieve congestion."

Mr. Armistead said that increased property assessments this year will increase the city's revenue in 1924 sufficiently to make the improvements.

Figures from the comptroller's office and from the supervising architect of the school department indicate that the increases will be just about enough to take care of the school, a project to which Mayor Sims has pledged the administration's support.

MELT JUDGE'S HEART Crippled "Hoboes" Go Free in Waycross.

Waycross, Ga., September 24.—(Special.)—The heart of a judge was softened at a session of the recorder's court Saturday morning, and two alleged hoboes were allowed to leave the city unmolested when they promised to walk to their homes in Florida. One a cripple, the other without the use of his left arm, stood before the bar of justice and related a story as pathetic that many of those in attendance were moved to tears. At the close of the hearing Judge Crawley opened a collection with a substantial gift, to aid the unfortunate ones on their homeward journey.

JOE A. RICE IS DEAD AT HOME IN GRIFFIN

Griffin, Ga., September 24.—(Special.)—Joe A. Rice, 49, died here Sunday night, following an extended illness. He had been in declining health for some time, but was thought to be improving.

Besides his widow, he is survived by two children, one sister and one nephew. Funeral services will be held Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock from the residence, Rev. John F. Yarbrough, officiating. Interment will be made in Oakhill cemetery, Griffin. Mercantile is in charge of the arrangements.

Over 60 per cent of the area of Finland is under forests of pine and spruce.

and strained muscles, wrenched arms and knees were encountered often. Linup Not Selected.

Exactly who will represent Oglethorpe in the tilt with Tech, is still an uncertainty—a question that hardly will be answered until the two rival forces line up for play. One statement can be made here without straying from the exact facts of the case, more than eleven Petrel players will see service in the opening game. With three backfield combinations of practically the same strength, six ends of almost the same calibre, not to mention other positions on the line, it will be necessary from a personal standpoint for Oglethorpe to find her most effective combination.

The backfield is the unknown quantity this year. In the few scrimmages the Petrels have had, the lines have been the best, but the backfield has been through which the backs could make any headway. Sensational runs or consistent gains have been few and far between. The Petrels have gained with any consistency. Bob Kilgore and Adrian Maurer have accounted for the majority of the yardage gained, but even these players have been stopped by rival linemen and backs when the ball was within scoring distance. "Frog" Gordy, Alvin "Red" Tye and "Harry" a threat when given the ball and will half way decent interference should give a better exhibition under fire.

Mr. West said that in 1910 he received a letter from Mr. Brown enclosing a list of about two hundred names, from each of which he was asked to secure ten cents for the support of the Market Bulletin, which was any compulsion and said that the amount, but did not recall the exact figure, with his own personal check.

Asked in cross-examination if he did not know that, needing funds to continue the bulletin, the market bureau had agreed to accept certain paid advertising, and that, having done so, it was necessary to list in order to secure certain classification from the postoffice for mailing, the witness said he did not know any of these details, but that such might easily be the case.

Under cross-examination, Mr. West admitted writing a letter in which he threatened Mr. Brown with a lawsuit because of the failure of the commissioner to reappoint him as inspector in the spring of 1924.

He said that Mr. Brown committed the post to several men in his county, "making promises freely at the time of the election."

Mr. Webb, while on the stand, told of the money which had been brought into Georgia through the hog sales he has arranged and conducted, and the commission through John L. Phillips, chairman, where the committee maintained an office.

Asked in cross-examination if he did not know that, needing funds to continue the bulletin, the market bureau had agreed to accept certain paid advertising, and that, having done so, it was necessary to list in order to secure certain classification from the postoffice for mailing, the witness said he did not know any of these details, but that such might easily be the case.

If It Does Not, Expert Says Bulldogs Will Give Eastern Football Team Real Battle

Haughton Is Gradually Working Out the Many Problems Facing Him in His First Season at Columbia.

BY WALTER CAMP.

New York, September 24.—(Special.)—Down at Athens, Ga., there is an earnest little group of pinkish chasers who can think of nothing except a certain Yale gridiron date.

In fact, most of them have been able to think of little else all summer. Bennett, the Georgia captain, listened all summer to words of wisdom from Pfan, Cornell's star backfield leader, while both were working as athletic directors at Camp Dixie.

Meantime, Woodruff, Georgia's new coach, has been planning out his campaign, and the Bulldogs of the south are coming north with the idea of showing the Yale Bulldogs a thing or two.

Georgia has two games before the Yale fray, in which she gets in condition, and if the southerners do not get stage fright in the big New Haven bowl, they will give Yale a real battle.

The announcement that George Connors, Exeter trainer, is going to Yale, means that the Bulldogs, replete with expert coaches for every position, now has acquired one of the most experienced and successful trainers of the state, told how he and three others had formed the committee which asked the oil inspectors to contribute to the Brown campaign fund in 1922. He denied that there was any compulsion and said that the amount, but did not recall the exact figure, with his own personal check.

Asked in cross-examination if he did not know that, needing funds to continue the bulletin, the market bureau had agreed to accept certain paid advertising, and that, having done so, it was necessary to list in order to secure certain classification from the postoffice for mailing, the witness said he did not know any of these details, but that such might easily be the case.

ers of prep school boys in the country. The news is not so sweet for Exeter, where Connors has been the standby for 20 years, but it ought to mean a lot to Yale athletes.

"Haughton's Experiment." Percy Haughton is working out his "great experiment" at Columbia with four teams in operation, running through signals and plays. Scrimmages will be light for some time yet, but he may give his men an occasional stiff few minutes, just to see what they are made of. That was his system at Harvard—"shadow work," followed by a few minutes of the hardest sort of playing between picked teams.

Haughton's assistants cover a period of years from 1908 down, including Paul Whitington, all-round athlete, who has coached guards and centers at Wisconsin; Lawson, former assistant coach at Williams, who has had lots of experience at tackle; Crowley, coach of wing men; Murrah, a student of quarterbacks, and Pitts, a long-distance kicker and halfback, who is working on kickers and backs.

Depler, the Illinois center, is the only one of the group who is not a Harvard product. He is a product of the Zunkle school.

The witnesses throughout the Monday sessions.

At the morning session, James Weaver, of Dawson, president of the State Farmers' union, said that he had no testimony to offer as to any illegality or irregularity in the department. Asked about a controversy upon the appointment of an oil inspector for Sumter county, Mr. Weaver insisted that he was not acting, whereupon Mr. Gress asked for a recess during which he could consult with witnesses.

Mr. Weaver took the stand at the only witness to take the stand at the morning session.

Grover C. Edmondson who, it had been understood, would act as attorney for Mr. Stewart, and who also has been subpoenaed as a witness, sent word from Savannah, where he is ill in a hospital, that it will be impossible for him to be here before October 15.

Mrs. Alice Louise Lytle, another witness subpoenaed, was present Monday but did not take the stand. Speaking privately to newspapermen, Mrs. Lytle stated that she was present of her own volition, inasmuch as she did not recognize the authority of the committee to summon her.

"I will testify," she said, "that the articles published in the Columbia Sentinel (of which she is editor) about the agricultural department were based on records on file in the department."

CHINA'S EVASIVE IN BANDIT CASE

Peking, September 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—China has replied evasively to the demands presented by the diplomatic corps as a result of the Linching bandit raid last May when foreigners, including Americans, were kidnapped from a train and detained in the Shantung hills for weeks.

The demands were that the Chinese government punish the provincial authorities under whose jurisdiction the Linching outrage was committed, reorganize the railway guard, under foreign supervision, and take other measures for the security of foreigners, besides paying heavy indemnities for the incidents last May.

(At the Forsyth.)

There's a spice, and a lot of it, in the farce comedy, "One Night," at the Forsyth theater for the first three days of the week.

From the very moment that handsome gentleman, who is one of the team of Hartley and Patterson, stumbles abruptly upon the silken, ermb of that very charming and delightfully refreshing young lady, who is the other half of team, there isn't a dull minute in the playlet brimming with humor and absurdity.

Hartley and Patterson have a real big-time entertainment. Their songs are zesty and their dances sprightly—this feature of their act being an innovation in skits of the comedy drama nature.

In fact the entire bill is above the season.

average at the Forsyth. There's a minstrel show with an entirely feminine company, which offers a pleasing songs and dance revue, embellished with colorful and novel costumes. It is called "The Fashion Minstrels" and includes seven talented girls, who, in addition to their many historical virtues, are most easy to look upon.

Special mention should be given the act of Ben Pierce and Lee Ryan, in "Dyer Wana Fight." That one of the couple who impersonated the rube is a scream, and Monday's audience showed him that they liked him by their prolonged and hearty applause. Their act should be counted right alongside the two aforementioned as among the best seen here this season.

Harry Braden, the optimist, has a few jokes, which told in his own droll manner, are made doubly funny. As an opener for the bill, "Attention," with a very pretty girl, who can dance like a blue streak, and her partner, adds a great deal in rounding out a splendid collection of turns.

"The Cheat."

Pola Negri's new Paramount picture, "The Cheat," featuring Jack Holt as leading man, with Charles de Roche heading the supporting cast, is one of the strongest photoplays of the current season. It opened at the Howard yesterday to capacity house.

The story deals with a beautiful and wealthy Latin-American girl who elopes with a New York broker and after being disinherited by her father, falls into the clutches of a crook disguised as an Eastern Indian prince, when she seeks to repay her debt to him with money, he brands her as a cheat and is shot for his pains. This precipitates highly interesting developments that rush to one of the most dramatic climaxes ever screened. The supporting cast is exceptionally strong.

Rhythm, now on their second week at the Howard, have lost none of their popularity, in fact they are more popular than ever. Their act is a complete change of popular hits and they are received with gusto by the audience.

The overture, "Excerpts from Faust," by the Howard Wonder Orchestra, conducted by Enrico Leide and Alex Kees, was well received.

"Felix Gets Broadened" is another of the Felix the Cat comedies.

"Siren" and "Cave Man" Feature Show at Lyric

The "Misleading Lady," a daring comedy-drama that packs a wallop in every scene, along with a high pressure flow of hearty humor, was presented by the Forsyth Players Monday night for the first performance of its week's run here at the Lyric theater.

With "Siren" as its theme, and its theme stripped down to a simple battle between the "siren" and the "cave man," this play proved an exciting one. It was well presented and cordially received.

The "Misleading Lady" is the first play the Forsyth players have produced in more than a month which has two well-balanced leading roles, giving both Miss Clara Joel and Raymond, Jr., opportunity for playing up to each other. With an even break, both were splendid. Miss Joel as the siren, and Raymond as the fighting male.

The audience is plunged with breathless suddenness into the middle of the story, with not a dull introductory moment.

Helen Steele has agreed to lure Jack Craig into a proposal of a siren role in a new play.

She does.

When the joke is explained, Craig fails to accept tamely his role as the siren, but it is a Patagonian.

He kidnaps the girl and her away to a shooting lodge far in the mountains.

There, two discuss sex and love and incidental questions with frankness and aplomb.

The opening night of the new full-week policy of Loew's Grand was successful for several reasons. One of the largest crowds that has ever packed the doors of an amusement house in Atlanta, for five acts, several of them good enough to be billed as headliners.

A feature picture, one of the outstanding achievements of Rex Ingram, one of the greatest directors of the present, was shown. It was "The Cheat," with Pola Negri and Jack Holt as leading man, with Charles de Roche heading the supporting cast, is one of the strongest photoplays of the current season. Brigadier General W. H. Johnston, in temporary command of the Fourth corps area; Colonel James M. Kimbrough, commander of the 22nd infantry, "Georgia's own," and their staffs were guests Monday night of the Metropolitan theater, at the invitation of Willis Patterson, manager. The showing of the pictures was greeted with a burst of applause. A unique feature of the performance was that the band played the march music as it sat in the theater, and yet on the screen, the members were keeping step with their own music.

Mrs. Nichols Peterson, of Tifton, prominent club woman, whose candidacy for director general from Georgia for the General Federation of Women's Clubs has been proposed, has received the support of clubs and club women throughout the state. The election of a state club woman to fill this high office will take place at the twenty-seventh annual convention to be held in Rome, October 18 to 20 inclusive. Mrs. Samuel M. Inman, of Atlanta, is the present director general for Georgia and her term of office expires at the 1924 convention of the general federation which will take place in Los Angeles, Cal., next June.

In a letter addressed to Mrs. Albert T. Aker, president of the fifth district of the state federation, Mrs. I. A. Hemmick, president of the second district, in which Mrs. Nichols Peterson resides, says:

"It is my pleasure at this time to write you and ask you to lend your influence to the support of the nomination of Mrs. Nichols Peterson of Tifton for Georgia's next general federation director."

Mrs. Peterson has a wonderful record of service in the federation work; she is recognized as one of Georgia's outstanding women, faithful and loyal at all times to the aims and ideals of the federation, and indefatigable in her efforts in its behalf.

"I am sure you will agree with me that the Georgia Federation will do well bestowing this important office upon one of its most faithful and deserving daughters. The editor of the woman's department of The Constitution has received the following endorsement for Mrs. Nichols Peterson from Mrs. D. C. Ketchum, president of the third district of the state federation.

"Mrs. Peterson federated majority of clubs in south Georgia. She has had long experience as state chairman and director for life Georgia federation. She placed Georgia club woman in general federation office. We owe her a debt of long standing."

Dr. Loveridge Gives Second Lecture Tuesday on "Mind"

Dr. Blanche Loveridge will give the second series of lectures on "Mind Processes" at the Carnegie library in the assembly room Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock.

These lectures are for the benefit of Tallulah Falls Industrial school, and Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president of the Atlanta federation, by which they are sponsored, urges every one interested in fulfilling the federation's pledge to Tallulah to avail herself of the opportunity to help this work directed by club women and at the same time to receive the inspiration to development contained in the lectures by attending the second.

Mrs. Spencer Atkinson, chairman of arrangements for the lectures, announces that the number and the personnel of ticket purchasers is gratifying and points to the fact that Dr. Loveridge's reputation as teacher and lecturer is of a high order. The University of Chicago, the Sorbonne in Paris, the University of Berlin, are three of the most famous institutions of learning attended by Dr. Loveridge as a student of mental science, and her research work in this direction has covered a period of nearly thirty years, beginning with her student days and continuing steadily through years as dean and president of schools and colleges.

Terminology easily understood, clearly defined diagrams, and an avoidance of technical phrases add to the clearness with which Dr. Loveridge presents the science of mind-building. The second lecture Tuesday will be devoted to proofs of the possibilities contained in mind expansion.

Fickets are 75c each lecture, or $1.50 for the three remaining lectures in the series.

Great Season Is Promised In Music Club Program

BY LOUISE DOOLY.
"If Paderewski should come to Atlanta I'd be willing to pay to look at him, even if he did not play a note. Just think what distinction he earned, in a time, too, when events were so stupendous as to dwarf personalities."

It was a hard-boiled business man, and not a high-born, who voiced this enthusiasm while the music club's concert for the fall and winter, November of the great Polka, towering internationally in art, politics and patriotism.

Upstaged by the great calamity of the world war from his artist life, which tradition presumes should unfit a man for anything else, and taking remarkable part in world affairs, he set did the impossible when he proved he could "come back" as the virtuoso, and on his first concert season last year, after many years of silence, drew from critics of the big cities, certainly the most unsentimental people on earth, a fervor of praise which, while it admitted defects, again set Paderewski on his own unshaken pedestal.

Studying from unprejudiced distance the whole list of the Music club's concert for the fall and winter, one is mentally impressed with the fact that the music lover even in New York City, center of the musical universe, will be offered no finer group of concert attractions than Atlanta will, and the New Yorker will have to pay higher prices. He will have a longer list of great artists to select from, but he can hardly make a more discriminating selection. A broad statement, for instance, probably the most sensational singer of the Chicago opera, and a dramatic soprano ranking at the top.

Where is Louis Gravelle, who excels rather for the suave perfection of his singing than for any sensationalism, but holds so firm a place in the admiration of American concert audiences that the only wonder is that some of Atlanta's earlier concert seasons have not presented him.

Albert Salvi is one of the small group of harp virtuosi who has figured largely in raising the harp to a dignity as a solo instrument which it did not formerly possess. He is a young man (and looks younger than he is) quite unassuming in stage manner, but uniting a genuinely intellectual attitude towards his art with a feeling for music and a virtuosity which has been seen to stir an audience like the convention of the General Federation of Women's Clubs at Chattanooga, N. Y. last summer to an enthusiasm that was highly significant.

It was towards the last of a ten days' meeting; the women were tired; there had been much good music, but everybody had been over stimulated; had experienced a plethora of good things. When this quite young American, with the sandy red hair, came forward, smiled diffidently, and began to play.

He did not seek to be sentimental; he indulged in no melodrama, but he gave rare refreshment to those tired women, and with all his modesty he was taken to their hearts.

When Ignatz Friedman shall have played in January, Atlanta will have enjoyed an astounding number of the very great in the piano world. Men like Hofmann, Paderewski, Rachmaninoff, Harold Bauer, and in earlier days de Pachmann, Rosenthal and Busoni.

The annual engagement of the Flonzaley quartette is no less an indication of Atlanta's possession of a very discriminating art loving public than it is tribute to a musical ensemble as nearly perfect as an ensemble can be.

In striking contrast is the really primal appeal of the Ukrainian chorus.

Finally, the club brings, in Erika Morini, a young woman violinist who is no mere prodigy but an outstanding figure in that group of young virtuosi of the violin, men and women, who provide one of the most wholesome manifestations in the present day forging forward of youth, questionable sometimes as to the value of its conquests, but genuinely triumphant in the realm of art.

The best in music for the greatest number that might be taken as a fair description of the Music club's standard. It is working sincerely for Atlanta, for her firm establishment as a music center. Its purpose is thus a broadly civic, or more correctly speaking, patriotic, as it is musical.

In this purpose it thus deserves a popular response and support.

It needs nothing of Atlanta, however, on the basis of appreciation for its civic motive.

It can safely offer its goods for sale on its merits.

Ashville, N. C.

Marietta Twins Give Lovely Birthday Party

Marietta, Ga., September 24.—Joe and John, the attractive twins of Mrs. W. B. Tate, celebrated their eleventh birthday with a happy party Friday evening. Quantities of lovely flowers decorated the sitting room and sun parlor where the games were played. The central decoration for the dining-room table was a large vase of pink roses. At each end of the table was a big bowl and a birthday cake wreathed about with flowers, and on each cake burned eleven tiny pink tapers.

The little guests were Frances Hardeman, Eva Allen, Marie Massey Brumby, Elizabeth Massey, Erma Dora Hancock, Jane Northcutt, Wyline Collins and Martha Brumby, of Franklin, La., and Walter McKinney, Harrison Anderson, New London, Tom Perkins, T. L. Leard and W. M. Murray, Jr.

The chaperons included Mrs. Walter Jones, Mrs. John White Morton, Harry Hodgson, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Price, Mrs. Horace Holden and others.

The Athens girls included Misses Elizabeth Arnold, Katherine Bradwell, Louise Morton, Annie Jordan, Louise Phillips, for her firm establishment as a music center. Its purpose is thus a broadly civic, or more correctly speaking, patriotic, as it is musical.

In this purpose it thus deserves a popular response and support.

It needs nothing of Atlanta, however, on the basis of appreciation for its civic motive.

It can safely offer its goods for sale on its merits.

Woman So Ill Could Not Stand
Says Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Well and Strong

Glens Falls, N. Y.—"For over two months I was so sick I was not able to stand on my feet, and my husband did my housework. The doctor said an operation might be necessary. I read testimonial letters about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and began to take it. Before I had finished taking the first bottle I saw what good it was doing me. I am now well and strong, doing all my work for a family of four, all my washing and my sewing, which I think is remarkable, as I had not dared to run my sewing machine, but had done all my sewing by hand. I truly feel that were it not for your medicine I would not be here today as my case seemed very serious."—Mrs. GEORGE W. BURCHELL, Glens Falls, N. Y.

Mr. Heyward is one of the brilliant poets of the south whose work has been appearing in leading magazines in this country and England for several years. He has also published several volumes of verse. Miss Kuhns is a playwright of no little distinction.

Montgomery-Stephens Wedding Takes Place in Pennsylvania

Of cordial interest throughout Georgia and in Pennsylvania, where the nuptials were solemnized, is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Alice Maner Montgomery, of Rome, and Robert Griffin Stephens, of Atlanta, which occurred Wednesday, September 19, at Stafford, Pa.

Mrs. Stephens has a host of friends in Atlanta formed while on visits to Miss Grace Stephens and Mrs. Harry Chamberlain. She is the daughter of John Montgomery and the late Mrs. Montgomery and is a descendant of distinguished families. Her brothers are James Montgomery and Stafford Montgomery, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Stephens is the youngest son of James McConnell Stephens, pioneer citizen of Atlanta. He is an alumnus of the University of Virginia law department, and is the head of the legal department of the Armour Fertilizer company. He distinguished himself while in France during the world war. He is the brother of Misses Nan, Grace and Frances Stephens.

The wedding was very quiet, only the immediate families being present. The bride wore an imported model of navy blue tulle, embroidered in beige, and a cloche hat to match. Her flowers were orchids and bride's roses.

Mrs. Robert Brodhead, aunt of the bride, entertained at a wedding breakfast immediately following the cere-the South has ever seen!

We've Found Aladdin's Lamp

We've wished to gratify every feminine heart's desire for raiment beautiful and rare. We cordially invite every woman to come and see how wonderfully our wish has come to pass!

New Fabrics

"What's in a name?"—there's a great deal when interesting new ones, such as Butterfly Velvet Voile, Goddess Crepe, Suede Crepe, Checked Chinchilla, Velora and others, are introduced along with known favorites such as Canton and Mirror Crepes, Satin Crepes, Cantons and Charmeuse, and the ever popular Georgettes and Chiffons. Great additional interest will be found in familiar fabrics seen in many delightful new colorings of solid shades and of most exquisite color combinations.

Superb Novelties

So exquisite in blending of colors, so unusual in weave and design are the many novelty fabrics, that we despair of conveying any idea of their beauty and richness! Brocaded metal cloths are truly magnificent and metal Persian Velvets are rich beyond compare. Flowered chiffons are woven with gold and silver threads. There are velvet brocades on cloth of silver and chiffon brocade velvets in exquisite two-tone effects—and so the interesting story goes—far beyond words or space to describe!

Quality and Prices

Quality silks do not necessarily mean expensive silks. Of course, there are silks here as exquisitely and luxuriously beautiful as money may buy. Then there are silks, and lots of them, as low in price as silks may be, consistent with necessary qualities that make them worth while. Imitations, slazy silks, seconds and defectives find no place here. Whether the most modest price possible for good quality, or the most magnificent that may be bought, one may buy here with the assurance that like quality cannot be bought for less.

Exotic Colors

Sunlight and shadow. The flash of silver, gold and jewels. Colors that flame and colors that softly glow. Rainbow gleams wrought with magic art into silken weaves like dreams made true! Color, color, color! Evening shades, soft as the glow of moonlight—ciel, rose, orchid, Nile. Bridal robes of silver gleam or purest white. Forest tints of grey bark or brown—and turning leaf in every shade that nature knows!

Rich Trimmings

Silks of such rare loveliness have called forth trimmings of equal beauty—Rhinstone-studded chiffons, metal all-overs in gold and silver combined with exquisite colors. Persian metal laces, metal velvets in Oriental colorings, bands and motifs in magnificent imported designs elaborately wrought with beads and embroideries.

Fur bands in many widths of almost every known fur and in many novelties in new colors. Brilliant and pearls in buckles, sprays, girdles, garnitures, and many novel designs.

Laces--Flowers

Magnificent laces of Spanish and chantilly designs are shown in every street and evening shade, both in the deep flouncings and narrower bands and edgings. Two-tone weaves are especially attractive.

The metal laces in gold and silver and combined with colors are very much in favor. Handsome real laces are shown in Duchess, Rose Point, Venetian, Irish, and Filet. Flowers of exquisite design and colors are shown in spray, filets, showers, and tiny French bouquets or bands by the yard.

Mrs. Richardson Endorsed By Club for Directorship

Wire From Mrs. Winter.
The following telegram was received Monday by Mrs. Alonzo Richardson from Mrs. Thomas Winter, president of the general federation of women's clubs, through her secretary:
"I am convinced that Mrs. Winter will be delighted to have Mrs. Richardson as state director to succeed Mrs. Samuel Inman."

"It is what comes from one's own, that makes life worthwhile," said Mrs. Alonzo Richardson, president of the Atlanta Woman's club, in response to unanimous and enthusiastic endorsement of her by the entire club for the office of state director for the General Federation of Women's Clubs, at the regular meeting. The endorsement was voted Monday afternoon, when several hundred women were present.

The resolution which came from the executive board was read by Mrs. A. W. Stirling, chairman of the club resolutions committee and was placed before the membership by the first vice president, Mrs. Norman Sharp. Not a dissenting voice was heard.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Richardson, and after the opening customary order of business, Mrs. Richardson announced that she had just returned from New York and Washington, from where she had brought a message to the club. She told of her visit to the "better homes" in Washington, D. C., which was followed by the general federation and would be the national headquarters for the Girl Scouts of America.

Mrs. Wing Praised.
Mrs. Richardson also announced that Mrs. Hoover commended Mrs. Newton Wing very highly for the splendid work for better homes in Atlanta. After a rising vote of thanks by the club, Mrs. Wing responded with a short talk about the homes.

Mrs. Anna Steese Richardson, associate editor of The Woman's club, gave Mrs. Richardson a message for the club. She said to the club president: "Take back greetings to your members and say that I remember them almost individually and I believe there is not a set of women in the United States like the Atlanta women, for what they want they go after."

Following Mrs. Richardson's message of her experience in the east, Mrs. Murray Hubbard made a short talk on the junior thrift insurance plan as commended by the general federation. Mrs. Hubbard said that the Atlanta committee would try out the plan as outlined first, and as it was a child of the Atlanta Woman's club, it was quite important that it be a success. She urged all members to exert every effort to put it across.

Mrs. J. A. Carlisle announced that a hundred or more tables had been reserved for the card party for Tuesday afternoon and invited others to attend.

Vocal Selections.
Mrs. J. Cooper, chairman of music for the club, in her charming manner, introduced Mrs. Robert L. Cooney, one of Atlanta's talented musicians and her accompanist Mrs. George White. Mrs. Cooney delighted the audience with several beautiful vocal selections.

Mrs. Richardson brought to the attention of the members that the club understood for cooperation and that it was her pleasure to announce that the Music club of Atlanta held its morning and afternoon meetings in the auditorium of the club during the entire music season.

Mrs. Wesley Peacock, lyricist lecturer, who appeared in a most interesting lecture, told the women how they might acquire a striking personality and her principal advice followed by her, be cheerful and if necessary remodel your personality, as an unbecoming hat might be remodelled.

Professor Peacock followed Mrs. Peacock with a highly instructive talk of the glands of the human body and their influence upon the emotions.

In any way, we turn to Mrs. Boykin instinctively.
"Helping everybody to be better and happier and helping all organizations with which she works to build themselves bigger are her prime characteristics," Georgia would find in Mrs. Boykin a director who would mother every little club and help forward every larger organization, and I can think of nothing which would give greater pleasure to thousands of ex-service men and their loved ones than the bestowal of this honor on a great and helpful woman."

Mrs. Judd's Indorsement.
Mrs. M. E. Judd, president of the Dalton Woman's club, in a telegram to the editor of the woman's department of The Constitution, makes the following statement: "Dalton Woman's club indorsed Mrs. B. M. Boykin for director of Georgia at the meeting held Monday afternoon."

Over long distance telephone Mrs. Judd declared: Mrs. Boykin is the logical candidate for this high honor. Nowhere in the United States has any other woman undertaken and carried to a successful issue such a tremendous program as the one executed by Mrs. Boykin as president of the woman's club. Construction of the handsome club plant in the south—one unsurpassed in the United States—was accomplished under Mrs. Boykin's guidance. Entertainment of the biennial council without the assistance of other organizations was carried to a brilliant conclusion during her presidency. Undoubtedly, general federation leaders are looking to Georgia to show to Mrs. Boykin's matchless executive ability that appreciation which is the due of tremendous service by according her this state honor. My club is a unit with me in offering support to her candidacy."

LaGrange College Alumnae Meets.

The Atlanta chapter of the LaGrange College alumnae association held the first fall meeting Tuesday, September 18, with Mrs. W. S. McLallen at her home on Candler street. Plans for the year's work were discussed, and it was decided to have a rummage sale September 28 and 29. Those having any clothing to donate are asked to communicate with Mrs. J. B. Ridley, Hemlock 1876, or to take their bundles to Mrs. Ridley on Linwood avenue.

Mrs. Ridley also has the sample book of Christmas and new year cards. The alumnae, former students and friends of members of the association are asked to be as generous as possible with their orders as a liberal percentage has been offered to the association for the sale of these cards.

November 11 has been set aside by LaGrange college as Struggle Day, at which time different alumnae chapters will send shrubs or ornamental trees to be planted on the campus. A landscape gardener will have charge of this work that the result may be harmonious. Any one having shrubs to donate or anyone wishing to contribute toward the purchase of such trees are asked to communicate with Mrs. Thomas Northen, Hemlock 2270, or Mrs. Warren A. Candler, Hemlock 527.

Those wishing to subscribe for the Scroll, the weekly paper edited at the college by the class in journalism, may either send their subscription direct or through Miss Lois Brand, Decatur 0190-W.

Miss Lucy Fordham Again Wins Lucky Locker 41 at Y. W. C. A.

Miss Lucy Fordham, of 784 Peachtree street, registers first for Y. W. C. A. "gym" classes and wins coveted locker 41.

It's the early bird that gets the worm, and the early girl who registers at the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium who gets Locker No. 41.

Every girl registering in the "gym" classes makes a try for this particular locker, which has been won again this fall by Miss Lucy Fordham. Locker No. 41 at the Y. W. C. A., Peachtree Arcade, is the popular locker with girls and women who are members of the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium.

Why? Because it is right in the shower room and the girl who has locker No. 41, leaves her class, has a cold shower and before the other girls know what she is about, is in her street clothes and away for the evening.

This year Miss Lucy Fordham, of 784 West Peachtree street, is the lucky holder of locker 41. When registration for the gymnasium opened Monday morning at 9 o'clock Miss Fordham was the first to register. She registered for the business women's class meeting every Monday and Thursday from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock, and when she was given her preference of the 226 lockers of the gymnasium, she naturally selected locker 41. Miss Fordham was a member of last year's 5:30 gymnasium class. She won the prized locker last year just as she has won it this year.

Love for Athletics.
In discussing her love for athletics, Miss Fordham declares herself to be no faddist.

"I spend my two hours a week in the Y. W. C. A. gymnasium because the exercise keeps me in perfect physical condition," she says. "I include my gymnasium as a part of my daily schedule. I have no sympathy for the girl or woman who nurses ill health or is in a nervous, half-sick physical condition because she will not give a little time to keep herself physically fit."

Miss Fordham walks for exercise; she does not stroll. She swims and is active in all outdoor sports.

The "Gym" Classes.
The Y. W. C. A. gymnasium had its formal opening Monday, October 1. The following schedule of classes at reasonable prices are open to all girls and women. No one has to join the Y. W. C. A. in order to become a member of the gymnasium or of the basketball teams:

FOREIGN ISSUES

Wall Street Watches Bankers On Foreign Debt Situation

BY R. L. BARNUM.
New York, September 24.—Higher prices for stocks and for foreign exchange were registered early today on the cables from abroad that Germany was taking steps to end, unconditionally, in the immediate future passive resistance in the Ruhr and on all parations, but the higher prices for shares did not hold. Before noon trading stocks were almost down to the low prices of last week on renewed liquidation on the growing conviction that general trade is slowing down. Call money opened at 4 1-2 per cent and then advanced to 5 1-2 per cent on the growing demand for funds to carry commodities. Before the end the week, from what was learned in banking circles here today, some of our prominent financiers will attend the American bankers' association convention again strongly advocating a wiping out, or readjusting downward, of the foreign war debts owed to our government. It will be argued that business will not show sustained recovery until this has been done.

With American Woolen again softening all street continues to discuss the optimistic statements put out by

The monthly dividends of 43 cents or a total of $1.28 were declared today by the Yellow Cab Manufacturing company. The last dividend at the monthly rate of 50 cents out in the meantime the outstanding stock has been increased from 200,000 shares to 600,000 shares.

All of the foreign exchanges with the exception of German marks were higher today on foreign buying here.

Our annual exports of automobiles and trucks have been small because of the heavy tariff imposed by other countries to keep them out and thus encourage home industry. Next to Belgium, Japan has been buying the ports of trucks to Japan were only $1,001 because there was a protective tariff in Japan amounting to 50 percent of the net value of each truck. Apparently, however, Japan expects the automobile truck to play an important part in the reconstruction work for until March 31, 1924, all trucks will be admitted duty free. This news has attracted much interest in automobile circles where it is believed large shipments of trucks will be made.

Wall street is expecting the last price cuts announced in crude oil to stabilize that industry and with selling pressure off the oil shares the feeling is that this week's stock market will show higher prices for rails as a result of the forthcoming favorable earnings statements for August.

The City of Zenith vs. The Zenith Electric Co.

This company maintained its rates by provable facts on its property values

The city was bringing suit to force the Zenith Electric Company to lower its rates. It was claimed that the utility company was making more than an adequate return on the fair value of its property.

The city submitted "expert testimony" to show the "fair value" of the company's property was less than it maintained. The existing rate was more than sufficient to insure the necessary return on the property as it was valued by the city's "experts."

But the Zenith Electric Company had learned that in the searching scrutiny of court litigation facts count for more than opinions, however "expert."

They had determined by means of an American Appraisal all the elements entering into fair value as interpreted by recent court decisions. The soundness of these facts was proved under a grilling cross-examination and their rates remained unchanged.

The Truth About Your Property

In every business, whether the investment is to be checked, the utility analyzed, or the value determined, the necessity for accurate, provable facts regarding the property is just as great. Upon them depends not only the accuracy of your plant and cost accounting and financial statements but the correct decision of administrative problems, the adequacy of your insurance protection, the soundness of your financing and the just determination of your state and federal income tax.

This need for basic facts on property created an accepted instrument of business—the American Appraisal. It has been developed with the growth of business to meet the demand for thorough, authoritative appraisal service. An American Appraisal is an accurate, systematically arranged statement of property facts, provable in every detail and supported by the cumulative experience of over 1000 specialists in the compilation of over 20,000 appraisals and by an unparalleled fund of statistical resources.

For more than a quarter of a century The American Appraisal Company has been supplying to the leaders of industry accurate and provable facts concerning their property—facts that have often meant the difference between success and failure.

Why not invite us to analyze with you where such facts would be of value in your business?
